Theologian Says:

Boxing Rules Today Violate God's Law

Washington—(N.C.)—The present rules of boxing which permit opponents to strike each other as hard as they can with the result that many bouts end with grave physical injuries to one or both participants, or even death would seem to be a violation of the Fifth Commandment.

"DOES GOD'S law permit a person to rain blows with all his strength on a fellow man to the endeavor to hurt him, and even to render him incapable of continuing the contest? The answer would seem to be that this is a violation of the Fifth Commandment of God, 'Thou shalt not kill.'"

"Among these Father Connell mentions soldiers fighting a just war, superiors, especially parents, inflicting corporal punishment on those subject to them, and those who defend their persons or property against unjustified attack."

"The reasoning of the defenders of pugilism who allege that the number of deaths resulting from (football) injuries exceeds the number of deaths by boxing, is fallacious, says the author, because from the standpoint of Catholic moral teaching it is not the purpose of football to injure one's opponent; hence, if injury is caused to a player, it is accidental to the sport."
