Americans' Charity To War Victims Brings Blessings, Avers Priest Home From Berlin

The abundance in American life, he saw on his return home, convinced the Rev. Wilson E. Kaiser, of Irondequoit, that it could be God's blessing on the great charity of American people to the suffering in Europe.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward W. Kaiser, 405 Eaton Road, Irondequoit, Father Kaiser is a priest of Great Falls, Montana from where he went to Berlin in 1949 to act as representative of the National Catholic Welfare Conference-War Relief Services.

The returned priest made a plea for continued relief for Germany to save that nation.

"GERMANY AS a nation," Father Kaiser said, "is probably the most industrious of all in Europe; it also has some of the greatest 'potentialities' for development."

"It has, however, at the moment a number of aggravating circumstances which threaten to nullify these 'potentialities,'" he warned. "We in the United States have been doing everything, and then some to help Germany remain a productive nation. Our government has literally poured money into the German treasury to help with reconstruction and employment.

"The private charitable groups, however, have been and still are powerful aids in the common effort of keeping Germany alive."

The priest called attention to the incredible sums of clothing, food and money sent by charitable organizations as NCWC War Relief Services to the suffering and the rehabilitation of the people.

"OUR HELP, and it must be continued, has made it possible, very definitely, for the German citizen to regain and hold the mental strength necessary to confront the gigantic problems facing him," Father Kaiser declared.

He cited the problem of the refugee which has brought to Germany about 7,000,000 people from the East who are homeless, jobless and broke.

After two years in Berlin, he told to the Courier-Journal, Wednesday, that he felt that "God has blessed our country and the charity of our people."

He is a busy man in Berlin to which he returns this week. He is a representative in charitable work of the Berlin Diocese and of the Dioceses in the Russian Zone of Germany. He is liaison officer between the Caritasverband of Berlin and the Russian Zone, and the NCCW War Relief Services. He serves also with Archbishop Aloisius J. Steinhilber, Papal Nuncio to all Germany. He works with the Public Welfare department of the U. S. High Commissioner's Office and is an Auxiliary Chaplain to the armed forces.

NO CATHOLIC newspapers are permitted in the Russian zone of Germany, he said, but the Berlin diocese publishes a weekly, "Petrublatt." Ostensibly there is religious freedom in the Russian zone. Priests are permitted to say Mass and perform functions within the church but no church or parish organizations are permitted. Father Kaiser said.

While the Russian authorities show no outward opposition to the Church in their territory, the scheduling of a Mass or other important church function could come simultaneously with a government-ordered project such as the rationing of food or clothing, a youth rally or other compelling activity.

IN HIS WORK, Father Kaiser said, there is no interference in the distribution of relief in the Eastern or Russian occupied area.

HAPPY TO BE HOME but eager to get back to his work by Berlin, Rev. Wilson E. Kaiser of Irondequoit, tells Thomas H. O'Connor, news editor, Catholic Center Journal of relief work among Germans under the control of four other governments. Relief goes through, the priest said.

There is no confiscation of any relief articles. Although pastors are allowed to schedule Masses and the people have complete freedom to attend Masses, sermons are checked by government officials to see that nothing is said contrary to the government in power, he explained.

As one of the chaplains to the late Konrad Cardinal von Preysing Father Kaiser in July, 1950 participated in the dedication of a plaque in memory of the Rt. Rev. Magr Edward J. Flanagan, founder of Boys Town who died in 1917 where the plaque was placed.

Father Kaiser celebrated Mass last Sunday in St. George's Chapel Summerville. He was ordained to the priesthood in 1940 in Great Falls, Montana, and served in several capacities including director of youth work before going to Germany. (On his visit to the Courier-Journal office, the young priest visited with Harry Wiley of the Christopher Press job printing department, an old friend of his family.)

The Upper Group (8th and 8th Grades) is coloring the project "I Believe" which treats of the Apostles' Creed.

IN ADDITION to the 82 nuns teaching the children, a countless number of lay people are providing transportation for both the children and the Sisters.

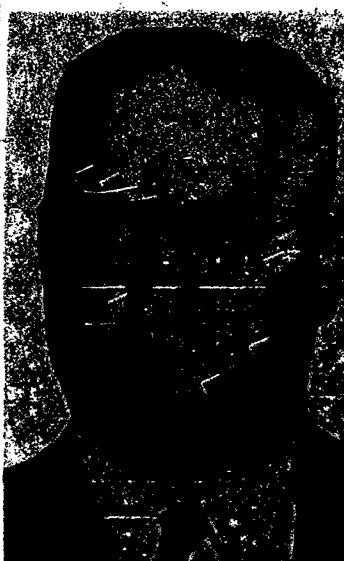

Seven Orders of Sisters are represented as follows: Sisters of St. Joseph, 49; Sisters of Mercy, 16; Trinitarian Sisters, 5; Notre Dame Sisters, at St. Francis of Assisi, Rochester, 3; Filippini Sisters at Walkway Glen, 3; Sisters of Charity - Daughters of St. Vincent de Paul, at Churchville and Chiu, 1; and Maryknoll Sisters, who are teaching for the first time in Rochester diocese, this year at Trumansburg and Interlaken, 1.
