Educator Cites Mothers' Duty To Stem Moral Laxity

Auburn More than 100 mothers attending the St. Alphonsus School Mother's Club meeting were challenged by the Rev. Raymond P. Nolan, DeSales High School principal of Geneva to become more keenly aware of their responsibility.

He spoke at the club's first fall meeting held in the school hall, Sept. 13 and urged his listeners to realize their power in rebuilding the moral strength of our nation through their great influence in their families and homes.

Presented by Mrs. William Merrill club president, Father Nolan presented the tremendous role his listeners as Christian mothers are in a position to play in combating contemporary moral laxity. He declared the power of a Catholic mother is one of the greatest forces available in the battle against the myriad modern evils effecting such moral catastrophes as those currently in the news.

Rev. Robert Meng, club moderator spoke briefly. Mrs. Nicholas Salvage drama chairman, was assisted by Mrs. Romeo Malvaso, Mrs. Paul Darlow, Mrs. John Quinn, Mrs. Harold Holzhauser, Mrs. James McCarthy, Mrs. Anthony Yantzen, Mrs. Allen Fulton and Mrs. Joseph Cappiello.
