WHAT'S DOING AT THE DALYS'
First Step to a Merry Christmas
By MARY TIMLEY DALY

"What a month!" I was thinking as I stared unseeing out the bus window while Markie and Mary chattered in the seat behind. There were the two winter coats we were on our way to buy, insurance premium due, the chairs that need reupholstering, the oil bill, and the daily upward spiraling of food and clothing that makes the budget shrink like a $10 suit in the rain.

At a red light the bus came to a stop alongside a mail truck. Markie and Mary were leaning over my shoulder, breathing down my neck and excitedly pointing out the window. "Look, Mom! See that?"

"See what?" I asked, irritated at the interruption of my melancholy litany of worries. "Nothing to see but a mail truck." "No, but the sign," Markie read it aloud: "MAIL OVERSEAS CHRISTMAS PACKAGES NOW—Oct. 15—Nov. 15."

"That means we gotta get these packages out right away," Mary said. "Takes a long time to get to Germany. And let's make this the nicest one ever."

"O. K.," I agreed. "But we can't afford much. You and Margie sit down and plan what we can send—and remember the budget."

ALL THE rest of the way downtown I heard eager planning in the seat behind. Somehow it was hard to get back into that self pitying attitude I'd been wallowing in. I'd remember a phrase from one of Ilae's letters: "I cannot tell you enough thank you for the warm

AND SO we heeded the message on the mail truck. MAIL OVERSEAS CHRISTMAS PACKAGES NOW. The attic yielded more warm clothing for a cold winter where warmth is more important than fashion. On top of the clothing went a big can of shortening, the coffee they love, cocoa, a package of sugar, a fruit cake for Christmas, several cans of chicken and corned beef and tuna, and then to fill the corners we tucked in bars of soap and candy bars and a big package of the vitamin pills Ilae needs so much.

After the box had gone it was practically impossible to get back into the doldrums. We didn't even want to try. And it wasn't a Lady Beautiful attitude. We know that if the shakedown in a world situation had been different we would have been the ones to receive a like box from the other side.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The national Council of Catholic Women 1312 Massachusetts Ave., N.W., Washington, D. C. has the names of people overseas in need of Christmas packages.

AMONG WOMEN

Long Distance Unity

By MARY LENNON SNYDER

Among the many advantages of membership in a national federation, such as the National Council of Catholic Women, mutual assistance and encouragement surely rank high. I am continually reminded of the opportunity offered to individual member organizations to draw on the experience and help of others.

Late in the summer I received a letter from a chairman of an enthusiastic group. The Bishop of Duluth, Minn. She had read that I had prepared a paper entitled "Toward Better Meetings" at the 25th National Convention of the NCW in Cleveland. The Diocesan Council was planning a workshop in Duluth and she wrote me for suggestions.

SOON AFTER her meeting I received a very nice letter which told the success of the Diocesan two day meeting. She wrote in part: "Our Blessed Lady surely hovered over us

Editor Lauds Type In Catholic Press

New York (CJ)—Reporting on a survey he made of Catholic newspapers, the editor of The Liberty News says "the average of those I looked at was better made up than the average large metropolitan daily."

Robert C. Nicholson, the editor, reaches his findings in an article in The Catholic Journalist office, organ here of the Catholic Press Association of the United States.

I have spent many hours carefully studying the typography and makeup of various newspapers, noting their virtues as well as their faults," he wrote.

Of the Catholic newspapers I saw, Nicholson said he was quite a fan of them, struck by the average of those I looked at was better made up than the average large metropolitan daily.

As I have never seen such an enthusiastic group. The Bishop of Superior (one of the speakers) drew a keen line between Catholic activities and other activities. How much is accomplished at a meeting like this?

THE MEETING, by correspondence or in person as at a National Convention of women from all parts of the country who share our ideas and face problems identical with our own reminds us we all have unity of purpose and procedure in the National Council of Catholic Women.
