Catholic Veterans Urge Backing For Anti-Red Laws

Support of current laws curbing Communism and commendation of the Board of Regents recommendation of prayer to open each day in the public schools were voiced in resolutions adopted by Monroe County Catholic War Veterans in afternoon sessions at Powers Hotel Sunday.

At the convention officers were elected, the year's outstanding layman and laywoman were chosen and a banquet held. William J. Croppin was convention chairman.

The veterans called the Smith Act of 1940, the McCarran Act and the New York State Feinberg Law "important safeguards against the insidious inroads of Communism" since they "make it unlawful to teach or advocate overthrow of the United States government by force or violence."

The resolution urged legislators to continue to protect these laws against recurrent attacks.

In commanding the Board of Regents prayer proposal, the Catholic War Veterans did so "for its realization that our free way of life is founded on a belief of an Almighty Creator and that to forget or lose our spiritual values is to destroy eventually that way of life."

The National Security News Censorship Order extending to all government agencies the right to censor information in the interest of national security, previously exercised only in the Defense and State departments was condemned in another resolution.

The order was declared "slither and repressive" because it "brings with it the prosecution of publishers, editors and reporters for defamation, libel suits, and threats of libel suits. These devices are used to tighten newspapers into withholding news distasteful to public officials." The resolution declared that freedom of the press is still guaranteed by the Constitution and that "the public is best qualified to determine how far censorship of news may go."

Noting the visit of Prime Minister Winston Churchill, another resolution urged the President to insist that Great Britain, as an ally of the United States, should consider American security and revoke its friendly relations with the Chinese Red government.

Donald J. Foley Named, Medalists Chosen By CWV

Donald J. Foley, 73 Gorsline St. was elected, commander of Monroe County Catholic War Veterans and Mrs. Elinor LaMay, 23 Bellamy Drive of the CWV County Auxiliary at county conventions of both organizations, Sunday at Powers Hotel.

The Veterans' organization in its 5th annual meeting adopted four resolutions and named selections for the outstanding Catholic layman's award.

Frank E. Wolfe, vice-president of Timely Clothes, Inc., a promoter of the Family Radio Rosary for Peace and former leader of several diocesan lay groups was chosen for the CWV award. Mrs. Ronald J. McDonald, 381 Electric Ave., leader in Catholic Women's groups was named for the Auxiliary award for outstanding laywoman in 1951.

AWARDS will be presented at the annual Communion Breakfast, March 2 at Sheraton Hotel. Newly elected officers were installed for the CWV by State Commander John J. Coughlin of New York and for the Auxiliary by Mrs. Hilda S. Worman of Bayside, L.I., state CWV auxiliary commander.

George M. Clancy, past state commander of the American Legion was principal speaker at a banquet at the Powers in the evening attended by 300 persons.

The present truce in Korea will just give the Chinese Communists added time to build up their forces for a final strike to drive us from Korea," Clancy said.

HE COMPARED the truce in Korea and the truce in 1945 which he said was given the Chinese Communists by Gen. George C. Marshall. "That truce gave the Communists enough time," Clancy declared, "to build up their forces and defeat the Chinese Nationalists regime."

Elected with Commander Foley who succeeded Carl A. Nanni were: Stanley J. Fabriniks, first vice-president; Gerard J. Beauchamp, 2nd vice president; Fred Herman, treasurer; William T. Croppin, judge advocate; James Maher, welfare officer; Norman Duemmel, officer-of-the-day. Retiring Commander Nanni automatically became a trustee.

Catholic Press '52 Directory To Run 8,000 Copies

A 1952 edition of the Catholic Press Directory will be published, as a result of the successful publication of the first edition by the Catholic Press Association last year, according to the NCWC News Service from New York.

This decision was recommended unanimously by a special CPA directory committee, and has been approved by the CPA board of directors. The new edition will be issued in April.

AN INCREASE in space orders resulting from the first edition was the main reason for authorizing another edition, according to the CPA's national office here. Other reasons included the rising volume of calls to the national office for rate information, the publication's financial soundness, and the prestige gained for the association.

According to Msgr. John S. Randall, managing editor of the Rochester Diocese's Courier Journal and chairman of the CPA press directory committee, at least 8,000 copies of the directory will be printed. About 6,000 copies will go to advertising agencies and advertisers, and the balance will be distributed on a paid basis.

The Directory will be printed by the Christopher Press, 35 Sco St., Rochester.

First Broadcast From Inside of Trappist Monastery At Piffard Slated On Sunday

The rigorous routine and purpose of Trappist life will be explained to diocesan listeners in a special broadcast from the new Trappist Monastery of Our Lady of the Genesee near Piffard next Sunday, Jan. 20 at 12:10 noon on WHAM as a feature of the COURIER JOURNAL'S weekly radio program produced by the Rev. Richard Torrey.

Believed to be the first such program of the "insider's viewpoint" and the "outsider's observations" ever aired from the silence of a Trappist monastery, the broadcast will feature an interview with Father Girard McGinley, O.C.S.O., superior of the new community, Father Torrey will draw a word-picture of their property and daily schedule.

THE TRAPPIST group numbers 33 choir monks and brothers who came into the Genesee Valley from the mother-monastery at Gethsemani, Kentucky, last April.

Occupying a fertile 1,400 acre farm a few miles northwest of Genesee, they have established a temporary monastery in an old farmhouse and started to erect a brick guest-house and quonset buildings for permanent monastery use.

Scheduled for Fall or next Spring is a large stone, hilltop abbey overlooking the picturesque Genesee country.

Scores of friends from the rural neighborhood and from Rochester have assisted the monks with gifts of money, livestock, chickens, equipment, and weekend labor. The broadcast will include Father Girard's public appreciation of these helps and his announcement of future plans and needs of the group.

Outstanding items of the daily routine of the monks to be discussed on the program will be the prayer, silence, labor and mortification which distinguishes the Trappists.

They rise daily at 2 a.m. for four hours of prayer, chanting of the Office and Mass.

During the day there are three more hours of prayer, five hours or more of labor on the farm or construction tasks, and several hours of study for the monks preparing for the priesthood.

During the winter, Trappists have only two daily meals with rigid abstinence from meat, fish and eggs. They live in voluntary total silence to dispose their minds and hearts to recollection.

THE BROADCAST will emphasize for great public understanding that the Trappist way of life is aimed at intimate love of God and growing knowledge of God, and that the externals of silence, exclusion from the world, prayer and fasting are methods used to reach that goal.

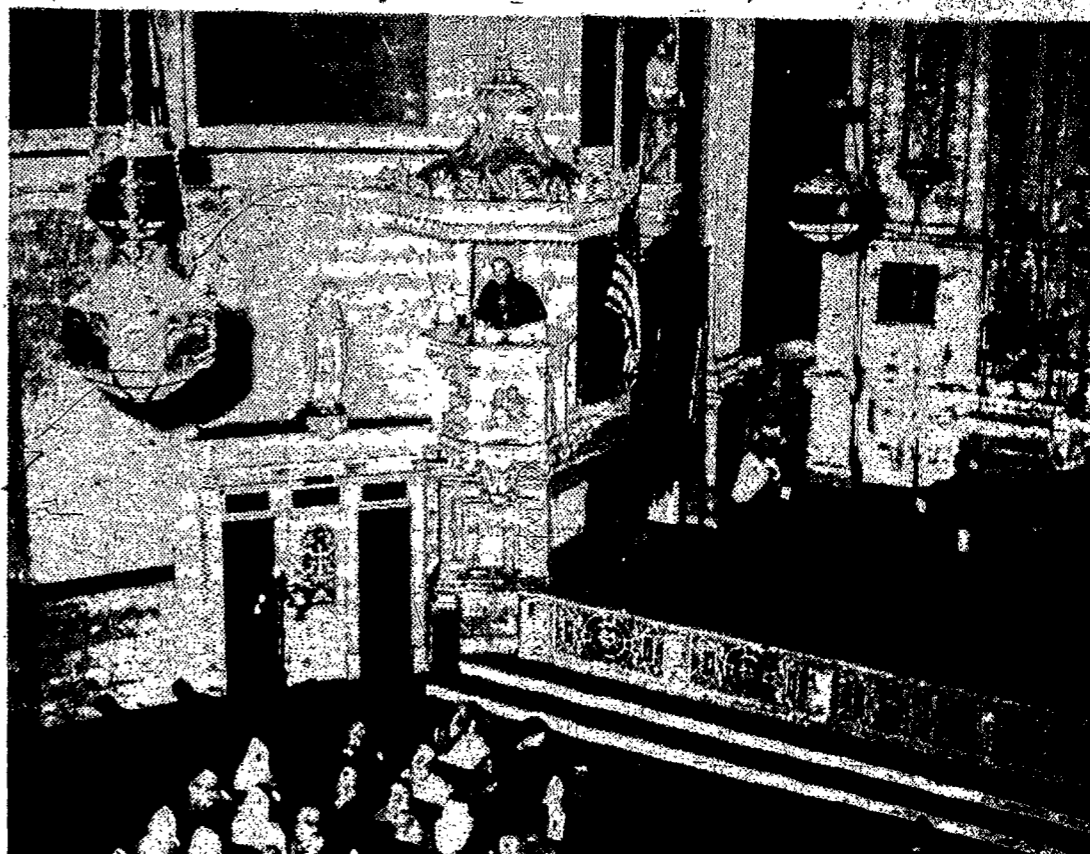

Leading in the support of the monks in their new foundation is the Rev. Charles R. Reynolds, pastor of St. Thomas Church, Leicester and St. Raphael's, Piffard, in whose parish boundaries the Trappists are taking up their new life.

Except for a monastery in Rhode Island, the Piffard foundation is the only one of these famed monks in northeast United States.

This is the community to which Thomas Merton, now Father Louis, author of Seven Storey Mountain belongs.
