Radio Proselytism Issue In Ecuador

Quito, Ecuador — (NC) — Because of reports that the powerful Protestant broadcasting station in Ecuador is preparing to strengthen its equipment, the Committee for the Catholic Radio of this country has launched an appeal to all Catholics for contributions in order to acquire short-wave transmitters now lacking, so as to "check to some extent" proselytism.

Hollywood In Focus

By WILLIAM H. MOORING

Who Can Decide Who Is The Traitor?

Stanley Kramer's $1,000,000 suit against the Wage Earners Committee whose members picketed a Beverly Hills Theater where his film "Death of a Salesman" was showing, raises issues of wider significance than the interests of those immediately concerned.

W. Mooring

Kramer objects to a statement in a handbill distributed by these pickets. It referred to him as a producer of "red-slanted, red-starring films." In this instance the Wage Earners Committee indicated objections to Fredrick March the star in "Death of a Salesman" and Arthur Miller who wrote the stage play upon which the film is based.

March claims to have publicly disavowed any involvement in or sympathy with Communism some time ago, and Miller had sold his screen rights to Kramer before the boom was lowered. Kramer, whose name and political affiliations never have appeared in any investigational record, recently severed business relations with a partner, Carl Foreman because Foreman had refused to cooperate with the Un-American Activities Committee. Kramer disapproved of Foreman's refusal to clear himself of suspicion.

George Glass, another associate of Kramer's, voluntarily submitted his explanation of former contacts with people and organizations since identified as subversive and has since left for Washington to give cooperative evidence before the Un-American Activities Committee.

• • •

THE MOTION Picture Industry Council, speaking for the Hollywood film business, some months ago, indicated within legal limits, that employment no longer will be given in the movies to known Communists. This excludes, of course, those who having admitted involvement in Communism have publicly recanted and given tangible signs of turning over a new leaf.

How can the Hollywood movie industry convince the American public, including such segments of it as the Wage Earners Committee and similar action groups, that "Reds" and fellow travellers no longer will be employed in the studios, nor be able to unload their literary efforts upon the movie producers

When, in fact, is a man or woman to be regarded as a wilful Red or a fellow traveler, as distinct from a former dupe who has shaken free?

• • •

MANY PEOPLE in Hollywood have been "joiners." Some of the organizations they joined were afterwards found to be Communist fronts. In most such cases it seems likely that those currently employed in the studios have left these organizations.

How to develop the truth in each individual case is a difficult problem for the Motion Picture Industry Council. Merely to get out of suspected organizations offers no positive proof of reconversion to true Americanism.

If a man is a Communist his denial of Communism, even under oath, is valueless.

The Motion Picture Council appreciates that such men as Martin Berkeley and Edward Dmytryk, having repudiated Communism under oath, give their only reliable signs of renewed loyalty to America, by setting out publicly to undo some of the harm they have done. They are publicly helping to smoke out the remaining "Reds" and to expose the methods by which Communists wormed a way into the movie studios.

Look and Listen

Rochester theater goers are offered only plays rated "B", objectionable in part, this weekend, according to the Catholic Theatre Movement. The Arena players are presenting "Years Ago," a play in which the Broadway roles were created by Fredric March and Ruth Eldridge in 1947. While at the Auditorium theater the Marches are themselves appearing in the "objectionable" piece, "Autumn Garden."

Speaking of "Quo Vadis" currently playing in the Loew's Rochester Theater, William Mooring, movie critic for the Courier

Wilford Scott — Tyrone Power — Billie Burke — Father Tormey

Journal says, "Its general historical quality makes it timeless and it is a film many will wish to see over and over again."

"Room for One More", at the RKO Palace, Rochester, didn't receive such favorable comment from Mr. Mooring recently. He points out that the dialogue ruins what could have been a good film, and questions whether the theme is a reasonably decent subject matter for a motion picture. The film is paired with the A-1 rated "Basketball Fix."

Robert Morgan, program director of Station WMBO, Auburn, wants to offer the area a tape recording rebroadcast of the Courier Journal's, "Morals Behind the Headlines" program which the Rev. Richard Tormey conducts every Sunday at 12:10 p. m. over Station WHAM, Rochester.

Wilford Scott's little group of Catholic Theater players, busy during the holiday season, will present "Our Lady's Juggler" for Rochester Council Knights of Columbus and Ladies Auxiliary Thursday, Feb. 7, in the Columbus Civic Center.

The patron of actors, St. Genesius, will be portrayed by Tyrone Power on the Family Theater heard over station WMBO, Auburn, Wednesday, Jan. 30, at 9:30 p. m. This will be Power's debut on the Family Theater. Billie Burke will be hostess for the evening with Francis X. Bushman, Betty Lynn and Mae Clark in supporting roles.

Mrs. Richard Welder, diocesan chairman of Mothers' Circles of the Diocesan Council of Catholic Women, will speak on the Catholic portion of the Church Hour Sunday, Jan. 27, at 9:15 a. m. over Rochester Station WRNY (630 kc). Ann Rains is new commentor and Blanche Veltz, narrator for the program.

Frank Noonan, Gene Eckert and Fern Huber, well-known in Rochester theater circles, will appear with the Community Players in "Father of the Bride" on the Aquinas auditorium stage Friday, Feb. 1. Sacred Heart Post 1127, Catholic War Veterans, are sponsoring the production which ran at the Community Theater last month. Mr. Noonan is cast in the title role.
