Convert Poet Publishes Verse

Richmond, Va. - (NC) - A convert who has contributed a poem a week to The Catholic Virginian here without missing a single issue has become a full-fledged author. A collection of 31 of the poems written by Leah Sheffield for the Richmond diocesan newspaper, has been published in book form under the title "Soulful Security."

Miss Sheffield is a hair stylist by profession. On the side she is not only a poet but a painter and sculptor as well. She is a native of Lancaster, Ohio, and has lived in Richmond for many years.

Her search for happiness led her to the Catholic Faith. One day five or six years ago she realized that, although she was enjoying herself, something was missing. She felt the need of some rule to go by. Miss Sheffield talked to a priest, took a course in fundamentals of Catholic teaching, and became a Catholic.

Priest Blesses 'Lakes Fleet'

Ashtabula Harbor, Ohio - (NC) - The annual blessing of Lake Erie's freighters fleet was carried out here by the Rev. Ernest A. Ward, assistant pastor of Mother of Sorrows Church, from the first of four tugs and fishing craft which wound through the shipyards. A brass band played aboard one of the other craft during the ceremony.

Frighters saluted with husky whistles, and the tugs returned greetings. Crews of the freighters stood at attention as the rail during each blessing. Among the vessels blessed was the automobile ferry Ashtabula.

This annual blessing was revived two years ago by Magr. Walter B. Martin, pastor of Mother of Sorrows Church here.

Traffic - A position from which speed-mad motorists can make slow-moving pedestrians travel swiftly to their ultimate destination.
