Hollywood In Focus

By WILLIAM H. MOORING

This film Warners are releasing about Will Rogers takes me back. I used to lunch beside him, day after day for months on end. His table was always crowded. Nobody talked much except Will. I never was sure whether it all came naturally to him or whether he worked at it.

W. Mooring

I know he had said some funny and wise things and so people expected him to keep on saying them. But I never could imagine that God had arranged for any many, even Will Rogers, to spout nothing but clever epigrams and capsules of philosophy.

He kept on trying. Often he made it; sometimes he didn't which made him all the more human to me.

• • •

THIS FILM about him is amusing, entertaining and almost certainly set for public success. It is based on his wife's story. It is made, too, in Hollywood where the bright lights shone around him all the time. It might have been a greater film if it hadn't eulogized so much. Just a few of Will Rogers foibles would have improved it for me.

I remember, for instance, how one day I took along to lunch an English film columnist. Will didn't catch the introduction, though neither of us knew. He talked the usual blue streak. Some of it was good too. We were leaving him on the set before he found out. "Is she a newspaper woman?" he blurted indignantly, "you know I never talk to newspaper people; I can sell my copy!"

• • •

ON ANOTHER occasion in London, he addressed a white tie and tails dinner. Present were the British Air Minister, top R.A.F. brass and officers of the English dirigible, R.101. He wore a tweed jacket and twitted the company about the "impertroobability" of the British.

They might have been very perturbed had they been able to see a week or two ahead. Most of them perished with the R.101 which fell blazing over France.

Not very long after that Will himself died in a plane crash. Only half a dozen of those present at that dinner have escaped violent, accidental death.

I was thinking. Even the greatest philosophers, the most brilliant scientists, haven't all the answers. Only God has.

And when we come to writing epitaphs about each other, we poor mortals almost always either see all the good or all the bad.

Second Pickford Film At Dryden

Second film of the Mary Pickford Collection being preserved at Eastman House through the courtesy of Miss Pickford, will be shown in the Dryden Theatre this Saturday, July 19, at 3:30 p.m. and repeated Sunday, July 20, at 2.30 and 4:30 p.m.

THE FILM IS Mary Pickford's 1925 hit, Little Annie Rooney. Starred with Miss Pickford in the film, is William Haines, who later became a great favorite at the end of the silent era and throughout the early talkies.

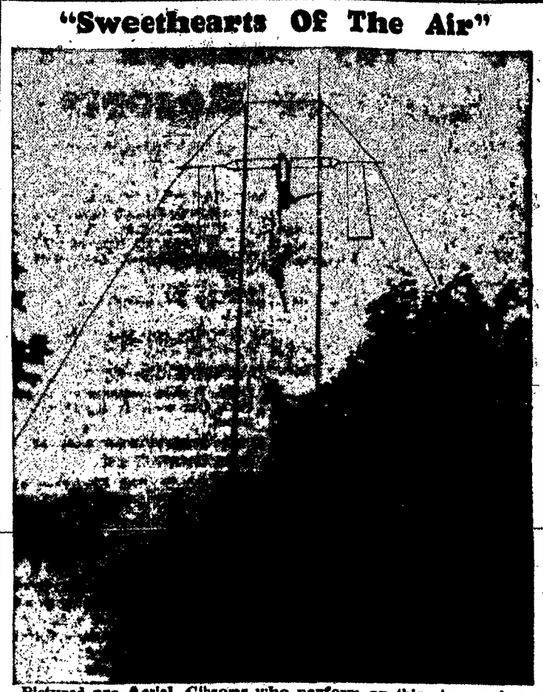
Little Annie Rooney was filmed "on the sidewalks of New York." The story, suggested by the famous song, is typical of the down-to-earth, heart-warming movies that made Mary Pickford the world's best-known and most-beloved star.

Rosary Plea Wins 250,000 Pledges

London — (NC)—A estimated 250,000 persons promised to say the family Rosary daily in England's two northeastern dioceses as a result of a five-week campaign there by the Rev. Patrick Peyton, C.S.C., famed American family prayer crusader.

Father Peyton began a 15-week tour of Britain late in April. The campaign will end August 3 with a monster rally in London's Wembly Stadium.

"Sweethearts Of The Air"



Pictured are Aeriel Gibsons who perform on this skyscraping rigging at Roseland Park on Canandaigua Lake this week.

Free outdoor vaudeville at Roseland Park this week features the Aerial Gibsons who will perform their spine-tingling high aerial act on a steel rigging rising 120 feet above the Canandaigua Lake shore.

Billed as the "Sweethearts of the Air," Germaine and Johnny Gibson present a double swaying pole sequence which has given spectators from coast to coast many evenings of unforgettable thrills. After completing their circus chores at the peak of the rigging, they will descend to a twin bar apparatus for double trapeze stunts and will then prepare themselves for the climatic phase of their other presentation.

Johnny will encase his legs in a double bar and his comely partner will be swung by him to and fro in hand-to-hand formations, and then she will be sent off into space to be dangled in a traditional "breakaway" coming dangerously near the ground.

The Aerial Gibsons will perform twice nightly at 8 and at 10:30 with an extra matinee performance scheduled for 4 p.m. Sunday, July 20. Admission free to all performances.

State Disability Film Tells Of Benefits, Rate

The New York State Workmen's Compensation Board announced today that its documentary film "So You Work In New York" has been revised to include information concerning the recent increase in the maximum weekly benefit rate from $26 to $30 for non-occupational disabilities. The film is now available for loan to interested groups in the state.

THIS fifteen-minute sound film fully describes the disability protection provided for wage earners under workmen's compensation and the Disability Benefits Law, as amended. Beginning with workmen's compensation, the film shows how the worker receives weekly cash benefits to compensate, in part, for wages lost during periods of occupational disability or disease.

In addition, the film tells how the disabled worker is also entitled to receive hospitalization, X-rays, laboratory tests, medical and surgical care and appliances as needed.

A DRAMATIC sequence describes the non-occupational disability protection provided under the Disability Benefits Law. The methods for providing this insurance, how benefits are paid and who is eligible to receive them are clearly explained, as is also the disability protection provided for the disabled unemployed.

A 16 mm print of "So You Work In New York" may be obtained free by writing to the Supervisor of the Film Library, New York State Department of Commerce, 40 Howard Street, Albany 7, N. Y.

Father Peyton At Birthplace Of Only English Pope

London — (NC) — Irish and American flags flew in an English garden in honor of the Rev. Patrick Peyton, C.S.C., when the American Rosary crusader visited the old-world town of Abbots Langley, Hertfordshire, the birthplace of the only English Pope, Nicholas Breakspear, who became Adrian IV.

Look and Listen

By FAWN SCHEFFEL

Acclaiming the personalities at the GOP National convention Louis Bromfield, noted novelist, writing for the International News Service, pointed to Cardinal Stritch, archbishop of Chicago, as the most moving and impressive personage present. Mr. Bromfield, a non-Catholic, reported that the Cardinal, a small, white-haired old gentleman, who gave the invocation at the third session of the proceedings, needed no escort, no flags, no trumpet calls, and that "spectators were keenly aware that he brought something greater and more impressive, . . . the presence of God which we need so badly in this country at this time in the history of the world."

Referring to the invocation itself, Mr. Bromfield said it was "one of the most beautiful pieces of writing I have been privileged to hear, filled with beauty, dignity, honesty, honor and simplicity."

Convention Coverage

In addition to direct broadcasts from the Democratic Convention next week in the Chicago Amphitheater, the National Broadcasting Company will carry party meetings, caucuses, interviews with convention figures, human interest stories, and coverage of activities of special interest to women and other behind-the-scenes action. NBC will originate its programs from two radio stations in the Amphitheater and another station at the Hotel Conrad Hilton, headquarters of the party.

Re-Named

They've re-titled Ann Blyth's film, "Sally and St. Anne," it is now "All Because of Sally," which leaves out the saint but will not spoil the picture. When James O'Hanlon, a Catholic, turned out this tale about a schoolgirl's devotion to St. Anne he had something more serious in mind. It got "hopped up" for laughs as it went along until just to relate the story might make you wonder how zany comedy about a screwball family can possibly sit well around a theme of faith, prayer and spiritual devotion.

Delegate Soother

There's nothing better than "Old Black Joe" for harmony at a political convention. A bunch of Catholic kids with God-given vocal talent and some tough priestly training in giving vocal honor to their Creator soothed the 5,000 delegates at the Republican National Convention. Whoever the programmer was, he was smart enough to realize that there have to be intervals between the flag-waving and plain mayhem perpetrated at any political convention. The kids were the Internationally famous Paulist Choir of Chicago, whose main job is to sing in St. Mary's . . . oldest Catholic parish in Chicago. Between the National Anthem and familiar sacred music their director, the Rev. Eugene F. O'Malley, C.S.P., (dramatized in 'Going My Way") let them sneak in "Old Black Joe."

CBS Radio (WHEC, Rochester) will feature the Rev. Richard L. Kaiser, on the Church of the Air, Sunday, June 20, at 10 a.m. Brothers. Choir of Maryhurst Normal of the Society of Mary of St. Louis will sing.

DON'T WASTE YOUR Time: Gramercy Ghost" at the County Playhouse, East Rochester, starring Veronica Lake, tends toward profanity and is classified objectionable in part.

"John Loves Mary" opening at the Arena Theater Tuesday and playing in Hornell on July 27, is "B" because of light treatment of marriage and acceptability of divorce.

Corning Summer Theater is offering a play not listed by the Catholic Theater Movement, "Rain."

First Time

London — (NC) — Mass was televised in Britain for the first time on Sunday, July 13, when viewers watched the service from the ancient Basilica of St. Denis in Paris.
