persecution in the Yugoslav Zone of the Free Trieste Territory is flercer than in Yugoslavia proper, Bishop Antonio Santin of Trieste and Capodistria said here in an interview with Religious News Service.

He said that the only religious freedom which priests still enjoy in the Yugoslav Zone is that of celebrating Mass, and that not a single nun is left in the area.

THE BISHOP said allegations by the Yugoslav-authorities that he was a Fascist, or that he harbored anti-Slav sentiments, were "base slander." Such charges were mere pretexts for disrupting church activities, he said. "If the Yugoslavs are dissatisfied with my person," Bishop San-
