Red Mass Speaker Asks 'God's Plan' For Halting Reds

"Will the lessons of the late World War and the constant fear of Communism urge us to reconstruct society according to God's plan, or will the world after this agonizing, temporary truce descend to absolute chaos and despair?"
This was the question put to a distinguished array of jurists, lawyers and prominent laymen at the Eighth Annual Lawyers' Red Mass, held in Corpus Christi Church, Thursday, Sept. 18.
The Votive Mass of the Holy Ghost marking the opening of the area Courts of Justice was celebrated by His Excellency Bishop Kearney in Corpus Christi Church.

THE SERMON topic was "Our Christian American Heritage." Answering his query to the members of bench and bar, Father McKeon said that first things should be put first.
"The first thing, he said, is that there is an Almighty God who made the world, bringing it forth out of nothing. And God made man to His image and likeness and set him to rule over the world. Why? Simply out of divine love. For what purpose? That man might know Him, love Him, and serve Him."
God should come first "in our private life, our community life, our professional life," Father McKeon said, otherwise, "we are ignoring the first principle of all order and using a false standard of values."
