Charity Bazaar, Open House Listed At Childhood School

First October Bazaar and Open House will be held at the School of the Holy Childhood, 215 Andrews St., on Saturday, Oct. 25, according to Mrs. Vivian R. Hennen, president of the Parents Club.

Proceeds will go towards maintaining this school for children who need special education and which is self-supporting.

The sale will begin at 9 a.m. and continue through the day until 8 p. m. Articles on sale will include various kinds of hand-made pieces such as aprons, scarves, linen table napkins and cloths, handkerchiefs and cases, pot holders and shopping bags.

"Prices will be most reasonable," Mrs. Hennen said, "and the bazaar will afford the public an excellent opportunity to do some early Christmas shopping at bargain prices as well as to inspect the school."

Home-cooked lunches will be served.

"Before you ask advice, explore your own head. There may be something in it."

Abp. Stepinac High To Meet Undefeated Aquinas, Sunday

Aquinas will be faced with one of the tougher games on its schedule when it meets Archbishop Stepinac High of White Plains on Sunday, Oct. 19, at Aquinas Memorial Stadium.

Bringing an undefeated record with them, the White Plains team will be fighting to protect it. Pre-game reports have the line averaging 197 lbs. per man.

Sporting a varied passing attack with a strong running game, the Stepinac team should prove to be a real match for the "Little Irish."

THE AQUINAS MEN'S Club, under the direction of Jerry Dorsey, president, will sponsor Sunday's game, whereas the Aquinas Mother's Club, headed by Mrs. French, have undertaken the task of building up the attendance to 14,000.

A special treat is in store for the fans attending Sunday. The theme of the half-time program is United Nations Week.

FEATURE attraction of the entertainment will be a salute to the Korean veterans of Aquinas and music by the Aquinas band. Flags from 60 different nations will form a colorful background saluting the nations of the world behind the Iron Curtain.

Aquinas has announced that tickets for the games will once again be sold at Edward's ticket office at the downtown department

Home game will be played between the two teams at St. Joseph's Villa on Nov. 9, according to Coach Joe O'Brien of the Tiny Irish. The Aquinas '57 team is the one that has been performing before game time at Aquinas Memorial Stadium.

Community Choir Renews Activities

Community Choir of Rochester with its headquarters at East High School, is continuing its drive for new members.

This non-sectarian and non-profit organization is now in its fifteenth year of successful operation, and was formed for the purpose of creating more wide spread interest in choral singing and greater Community understanding in the Rochester area.

ALL PERSONS over 16 who are interested in good choral singing and wish to express themselves are urged to enroll.

Male voices are particularly needed and a special invitation is extended to those persons who can avail themselves of this opportunity. Prospective members are not subjected to auditions.

Clarence P. Bilhorn, with his many years of experience as teacher and director of music in public schools, has been retained to direct this choir, and a skilled accompanist has been engaged.

THE CHORUS at one time boasted a membership of 150 voices, but events of the past few years have greatly reduced its number.

Industrial choruses have sprung up and some of the members have gone into the service of our country. The organization is a charter member of the Rochester Choral League and offers its members the opportunity of appearing in public.
