

Boys Town On Thanksgiving Day Is Aquinas Football Attraction

The traditional Thanksgiving Day football game in Aquinas Memorial Stadium, Mt. Read Blvd. and Ridgeway Ave., Rochester will bring together at 11 a. m. the undefeated Boys Town team and the Aquinas squad hopeful of maintaining its supremacy over the Nebraska gridlers.

Plans for a record turnout for the game which is played early enough for the spectators to get home to the Thanksgiving dinner are being made at the Dewey Ave. School.

To prepare for the game a gigantic rally on the Aquinas campus is planned with a dance to follow. On Thanksgiving night a Victory dance will be held at the Seneca Hotel.

ALL THE COLOR of the Thanksgiving Day Big Game will be present when the two teams clash on Thursday of next week. Halftime program will be featured by the Aquinas Institute uniformed Band directed by Raymond J. Hasenauer of the school faculty.

The team representing the famed school founded by the late Father Flanagan is coming to Rochester with seven victories won over teams in six states. Coach Sid Palrang's eleven have run up a total of 282 points while limiting their foes to a meagre 57 counters.

Boystown 1952 version is said to be the best in Boystown history. It is a combination of mobile, hard-charging line and a small, mercury galloped backfield, effectively molded by sound, competent coaching.

SPARKLEHEADS THE Nebraska's explosive formation attack are two diminutive backs: Charles "Deacon" Jones and John Medlock. Jones, although packing only 134 lbs. on a 5'10" frame, has racked up the amazing total of fifteen touchdowns this year. Sporting an average of eleven yards per carry, the willowy Jones has recorded seven of his touchdowns on runs of over forty yards.

The other member of the touchdown twins, Medlock, while slightly bigger, 5'10", 162 lbs., possesses the same dizzying speed. Carrying the ball 105 times, for a ten yard average, this senior fullback has scored eleven times. Although rarely forced to use it, the Cowboys have a capable aerial game. Quarterback Dick Maddux, besides being a smooth ballhandler, has completed 23 of 44 passes for a gain of 379 yards. Averaging a solid 174 lbs., the Boystown line has been stingy in yielding touchdowns. Only one foe, North Catholic of Pittsburgh, has succeeded in scoring more than one touchdown against the Nebraskans.

THIS RUGGED forward wall is anchored by two tough, experienced ends: Booker and Dick Phillips. Although not related the 6'2", 173 lb. Booker, and the 6'3", 184 lb. Dick, have much in common in the way they thwart enemy running attacks.

Boystown last visited Rochester in 1949, when they dropped a tough 21-6 verdict to one of Mickey Connelly's powerhouses. Previously in 1947, despite a sparkling performance by their star halfback, Tom Caradine, the Cowboys lost a 29-18 decision.

Coach Ray Jablonski's squad after a lay-off period is eager to get out there and smother the Cowboys to keep the Aquinas score ahead over the Nebraskans.

Auburn Daily Queried On High School Drive Stand By Father Hickey

Catholic people in Auburn asked, this week, that the following letter to the editor of the Citizen-Advertiser of Auburn from the Rev. Kieran J. Hickey, O. Carm., professor of philosophy, White Plains, Auburn, be reprinted. The letter appeared Nov. 17, 1952 in the Citizen-Advertiser under the caption "No Help from the C.A.?"

TO THE EDITOR: CITIZEN-ADVERTISER AUBURN, N. Y.

The tremendous gift to education made by the Catholic people of Auburn in the new Mount Carmel High School is an achievement commanding respect and admiration. A deep love for education, an appreciation of definite moral and religious values, devotion to their children and, above all, a ready willingness to sacrifice themselves for these things while paying taxes for state schools are virtues of American Catholic education possessed in unsurpassed degree by our Catholic people of Auburn.

These same good people, I may add, in their recent campaign to raise funds for Mount Carmel High School received not a single word of good wishes, not the slightest sign of support, not the faintest sign of recognition from the CITIZEN-ADVERTISER.

Here is the most extensive project ever undertaken by the Catholic people of our city; an educational project approximating a million and a quarter dollars; which spiritually and materially affects the vast majority of our citizens; which, educating yearly 800 of our youth, promises to be the largest high school in Auburn; which is made possible by the sheer goodness and sacrifices of our people; but which, despite all this, does not rate even a casual "Good Luck, Neighbors" from the local newspaper.

Let me say this: While in your opinion Mount Carmel High School may be insignificant in contrast to the "rich and choice" items you so often editorialize, I personally shudder to think that such judgment and quality of thought are in a position to mold public opinion. In the present instance, however, I can assure you beyond doubt that it is not Mount Carmel High School which has suffered in public esteem.

To say "segregation" is the issue is nothing but riddled thinking. It could also be evasion. Segregation, as applied to Catholic education is not and never has been a problem of American education. The problem of American education is secularism, not segregation.

You may disapprove of our separate school system, but to do so you must challenge the principle of religion in education. Catholic schools are a social fact; the principle which gave them life is a religious one. How then can you talk about one without the other? You may say that all you object to is the separate school system, but fundamentally you

8 Area Debating Units To Vie At Niagara Tourney

Niagara University's debating squad will play host to members of the Western New York Forensic League in a debating tourney here on Friday and Saturday, Nov. 21-22.

Representatives of eight member schools including Niagara, Canisius, St. Bonaventure, Buffalo, Rochester, Houghton, Fredonia and Genesee State together with debaters from several other schools in the area contemplating membership in the league will debate the topic: "Resolved—That the United States government should establish a Federal employment practices law."

The Rev. Kenneth Slattery, C.M., debating moderator at Niagara said that a silver cup would be awarded to the winning school and that plaques would be presented to both the winners and runners-up.

ANDREW VON HENDE, Esq., Niagara Journal, is president of the Western New York forensic league, while a classmate, Alex Cipriano, Brooklyn, is chairman of the group.

Niagara's affirmative and negative novice teams have defeated both St. Bonaventure and Canisius in engagements to date, indicating that the home squad will play a prominent part in the week-end tourney.

Notre Dame U. Debater Thomas C. Hartzell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew C. Hartzell, 219 Dorchester Rd., as a member of the Notre Dame University debating team participated in the Purdue University Forensic Conference and the Earlham College Invitational Tournament over the weekend.

Diocesan-Wide Collection Of Clothing Centered In Parish

Every parish will be a collection center in the diocesan-wide Thanksgiving Clothing Collection for Korea and refugees of Europe, the Near East and Far East during Thanksgiving Week, Nov. 23 to 30.

The collection was given the approval of His Excellency Bishop Kearney in a letter to the pastors, last week.

Details for the collection were outlined by the Rev. Louis J. Holman appointed director of the campaign in the diocese by the Bishop.

In the Diocese of Rochester, collection of clothing, shoes and blankets will be made in each of the parishes. Anyone having any of these items which are still usable may bring them to his parish church or a place designated by the pastor.

THE MATERIAL collected will be sorted, packed and shipped to the War Relief Center, in Hempstead, Long Island, from where it will be shipped to the destitute peoples of war-torn countries all over the world.

Regional directors have been appointed to conduct the campaign outside the Rochester Diocese. They are: Rev. Robert Fennerty for Geneva, Rev. Daniel Hogan, Corning; Rev. Charles McCarthy, Auburn, and Rev. Joseph McNamara, Elmira.

School children are being asked to do their share in this charitable project by assisting in bringing the clothing to the parish centers.

"IF EVERYONE does just a little," Father Holman said, "we in America can lift millions of despairing people in foreign lands to their rightful dignity as human beings."

"We in America have been blessed by God with a great abundance, even to the point of wastefulness. Today the world is too small for us to forget or ignore the terrible plight of millions of refugees, homeless and destitute. To do so, we would have to turn our backs upon them deliberately in a manner anything but Christian."

"What better way do we have to show our appreciation for the great gift of America than by making this a real Thanksgiving?" Father Holman asked.

Pointing the need for the collection, the War Relief Service, National Catholic Welfare Service announced:

"In Korea, people facing their third winter of war, with less than they had to carry them through the past two winters.

In Western Germany some 11,000 refugees per month were still are, being added to the one and one-half million who have already fled from the Soviet zone. The several hundred thousand refugees in shelters in the Western sector of Berlin are in particularly dire need.

Austria has its refugee problems and is faltering badly on the road to economic recovery. The British colony of Hong Kong bulges with more than a million refugees from Red China.

An estimated 125,000 displaced persons—the unwarmed hard core" of the European DP problem—remain in camps in Germany, Austria, France and Italy.

SAD, HUNGRY, lonely, cold and in rags, this little Korean girl sits on a dock in Pusan, one of thousands of refugees in that war-torn land who will gain winter warmth from the contributions of American Catholics to the annual Bishop's Thanksgiving Clothing Collection to be conducted in parishes throughout America next week. How to take the Work out of Housework

HOLIDAY HOUSE CLEANING
Even badly soiled rugs will look bright as new if you rub ordinary baking soda into the nap, leave overnight, wash over the rug with your vacuum cleaner.
(You can vacuum six large rugs for a penny's worth of electricity.)

BRING SUMMER CHEER TO WINTER ROOMS!
It's easy with cherry-bright 150-watt bulbs. And you'll actually save money, too... because one 150-watt bulb gives four times as much light as three 50-watt bulbs, even though they use the same amount of current!
(Costs you less than a penny to burn a 150-watt bulb two full hours!)

LIKE DELICIOUS COFFEE?
You'll get the full flavor if you stir your electric coffee-maker between brews, put it away completely disassembled. After each brew, wash insides with fresh suds.
(Have all the piping hot coffee you want... for a fraction of a cent a brew.)

WASHING MACHINES HATE COLD, TOO!
If you store your electric washer in an unheated place, fill the tub with hot-water before starting the motor. Your washer does a big family laundry for two or three cents' worth of electricity!

HERS A HANDY TIP!
When washing baseboards or door frames, hold a piece of cardboard flush against the walls to prevent splattering them as you wash.
(There's always plenty of hot water on tap for cleaning jobs if you have an electric water heater. The cost! Just a few cents a day!)
