Red School Teacher Ouster Upheld In State Supreme Court

Philadelphia — (NC) — The Pennsylvania State Supreme Court meeting here upheld the dismissal of a Pittsburgh high school teacher accused of being a communist.

In an opinion by Justice Horace Stern, and in a concurring opinion by Justice Michael A. Musmanno, the court affirmed a ruling of the Allegheny County Common Pleas Court which sustained the firing of Dorothy Albert, a former English teacher at the Taylor-Allerdice High School, Pittsburgh, where she taught for 18 years.

THE FBI NAMED Miss Albert a communist and on March 28, 1950, the Pittsburgh Board of Public Education dismissed her on charges brought by Dr. Earl A. Dimmick, superintendent of schools.

After the board upheld her dismissal at a formal hearing, Miss

Albert appealed to Dr. Francis B. Haas, State Superintendent of Public Instruction. Dr. Haas granted her a hearing on January 15, 1951 and confirmed her dismissal. She then took her case to the Common Pleas Court, which on September 24, 1951 affirmed Dr. Haas' action. Her appeal to the Supreme Court followed.

Justice Stern said among the causes listed in the State School Code for ending a teacher's contract is "advocacy or participating in un-American or subversive doctrines."

"THERE IS no question of the right of free speech involved in this case," the opinion stated. "Miss Albert is not being penalized in her capacity as a private citizen because of any political, economic or social views she may entertain, or any expression she may care to give to these views."

"The concern here is with her rights as a teacher," the opinion continued. "The Legislature certainly can prescribe qualifications for teachers in the public schools with respect not only to their academic attainments but also to their moral characters and their loyalty to the State and Federal Governments."

"Certainly our public school system is the most vital feature of our governmental and democratic system. In order to have such a thorough and efficient system those who teach in the public schools must be persons not only of learning and ability, of character and integrity, but they must be devoted to our country, its institutions and the basic principles upon which it was founded and hopefully ever will rest."

"JUSTICE STERN pointed out that the State School code provides that in every elementary, public and private school there shall be taught civics, including loyalty to the State and National Government. How can such loyalty be taught if the teacher herself is disloyal?" the opinion said.

Justice Musmanno criticized the Pittsburgh chapter of the Civil Rights Congress for the describing the case as "a witch hunt," and declared: "The term witch hunt in this connection represents loose thinking and irresponsible language because we know that witches have no existence except in a disordered imagination," he said.

"And we know also that communism is a reality with potential dangers to mankind that imagination cannot exaggerate. Dorothy Albert was not charged with any supernatural offense. Her offense was a very earthy one."

"IT WAS NOTHING less than advocating through the Communist Party of which she is or was a member, the overthrowing of our government, not by broomsticks but by bomb, bullet and bayonet as exemplified by communist history ever since Lenin in 1917 achieved his bloody revolution in Petrograd, Russia."

Company Fined $1,000 On Lewd Magazine Count

Ottawa — (NC) — Convicted of distributing obscene printed matter, a wholesale distributor of magazines, newspapers and pocket-size-books was fined a total of $1,100 by Judge A. G. McDougall here in County Court.

The company, found guilty on 11 charges and fined $100 on each, announced it will appeal to a higher court. Four books and seven picture magazines were involved in the litigation, which was in the nature of a test case during an intensive campaign by Catholic and Protestant organizations to rid book and newsstands of salacious publications.

THE BOOKS involved in the charges were: "Tragle Ground" and "Journeyman" by Erskine Caldwell, "Women's Barrack" by Torska Torres, and "Diamond Lil" by Mae West. The seven picture magazines were Paris Model, Peep Show, Glam, Eye-ful, Kicker, Wink and Beauty Parade.

The jurist gave a separate decision on each of the books but included all seven picture magazines in one decision. The judge said that "Tragle Ground" from beginning to end "deals with the questions of sex" and that the language is lewd and filthy and the actions and habits of the characters in the book are in the same category. He said that "Journeyman" "deals with a similar class of people and is of the same type and nature as the book 'Tragle Ground'."

Judge McDougall said that "Women's Barracks," concerned with life in the French women's army during World War II, "deals almost entirely with the question of sex relationships" and a matter which might receive proper attention from "a medical or psychological standpoint" but otherwise could have "no other effect than to deprave and corrupt."

THE JUDGE said that "Diamond Lil" has "no literary merit" and can serve "no public good whatsoever." He said it deals with sex from start to finish and "the tendency of the book is to deprave and corrupt those whose minds are open to such immoral influence and into whose hands a publication of this sort may fall."

Regarding the seven picture magazines, the judge found that they "from first to last were of absolutely no artistic value, the photographs were vulgar and lewd, and may, I think, properly be defined as 'smut.' They are undoubtedly obscene with the meaning of the test which I have applied to the other cases."

The Mother

Blessed Mother, did You hold Your child Up to the star and say: "My God, Your gift to man Is fair; oh, much too fair and fey For sacrifice?" Or did You kneel and pray: "Our Father, Who hast chosen me To bear Thy son, I beg of Thee— Let all humility be mine To love—and give to Thee again Whaz always has been 'Thine?'"

GOD LOVE YOU!

By MOST REV. FULTON J. SHEEN

"I must increase; I must decrease." These words spoken by John the Baptist when he saw Our Divine Lord constitute the real test of Christian character. God's glory and not personal glory is the goal of life, and when this is aimed at, happiness follows. Every one of the 27,157 foreign missionary priests, each of the 3,296 foreign brothers, and each of the 10,653 foreign missionary sisters, said in their hearts the day they left for Africa, "He must increase; I must decrease." When Father Szalko, a Hungarian missionary in Honan, China, was promised everything, including freedom if he would be a spy for the Reds, his answer was, "He must increase; I must decrease." The thousands who sacrifice their old gold, who do without a dessert or a package of cigarettes and who sacrifice some of their savings to enable the Holy Father to help pay for his 57,694 catechists in Africa alone are decreasing their personal enjoyments to increase the knowledge of love of Christ in the Missions.

The glories of Christ are discerned in the same psychological instant as our own littleness. Those who protect their ego and pamper it, by the same token are never generous to Our Lord or His Blessed Mother.

The farther we get from the spirit of Christ, the more we think of ourselves. When the sun is far behind us, a long shadow falls in front of us and we believe ourselves taller than we are. As the sun gets closer to us, the shadow diminishes. As God approaches, the shadow lessens. As the passion to see Christ loved in India, Japan and Africa becomes intense, we want to give up more and more to see Him increase. We decrease our pride, we deflate our pocketbook, we diminish our wants, we minimize our pleasures, and gradually the love of Christ becomes compelling, constraining and imperative. We might say that our God Love You column as well as those who receive God Love You letters is a Christian Roll of Honor.

GOD LOVE YOU to Mrs. M. L. H. for $3, "excess lunch money" which she sent the Missions. . . . GOD LOVE YOU to M. J. for $1,000. "I prayed to St. Philomena and promised her I would send $1,000 for the Missions if I could sell some property at a good price. Almost miraculously the property was sold and it is my wish that the money be used for a mission chapel named after St. Philomena so that she may be known in some distant land. . . . GOD LOVE YOU to M. L. for $5. "It is good to see one's bank balance grow, but it is also makes one realize how selfish it is to hoard money for one's own pleasure without a thought of the good that saving could do for the Missions. I would like to set aside $5 a month for that purpose. . . . GOD LOVE YOU to Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Z. for $5. "We have received many benefits from our dear Lord and wish to share our appreciation in this way." . . . GOD LOVE YOU to M. S. who sacrificed $3, the price of a new pink sweater she wanted but realized that it would do more good going to the Missions.

One Christmas gift that will make your friends better, is a World Mission Rosary which will teach them to pray for the Holy Father's Missions. At your request, and a $2 offering to the Missions, we will send you one of these rosaries, blessed by me.

Cut out this column, pin your sacrifice to it and mail it to the Most Reverend Fulton J. Sheen, National Director of The Society for the Propagation of the Faith, 100 East 38th Street, New York 18, New York or your Diocesan Director Very Rev. John S.
