Aquinas To Meet Auburn Team Sunday; Wins Opener

Although starting the season off with victory, the Little Irish basketball team is practicing even harder for its next game on Sunday, Dec. 14 with Holy Family of Auburn in the Sports Arena, Rochester.

RON MACK, 166 lb. Aquinas guard, who scored 23 points against Franklin last Saturday. Mack is captain of this year's team.

Holy Family has always come up with a strong team and proven a stiff test for its opponents.

In 1949, the Holy Family team upset a potent Irish team which had such stars as Peter Blackwood, John Foley, Jim Gling and Buzzy Weaver on the roster.

The two teams have been playing each other for several years and Sunday's game, starting at 3 o'clock, marks the resumption of this rivalry.

A REPORT from the Auburn school finds another good team this year. Thus far this season they have a 3 won and 1 lost record, losing only to Waterloo and winning against the victor of a defeat of East Syracuse.

Captain Al Crowley of Holy Family says he has a very quick team and stresses the fast break.

Irish coach, Lou Bagley, revealed that the maroon and white are still not at full strength.

Missing is Gene Palermo, who was injured in the football season. Palermo should give the squad a big lift when he starts to play.

Ron Mack, high scorer in the Franklin game along with Greg Britz and Danny O'Brien are the only sure starters for the Sunday afternoon game.

The probable starting lineup for Holy Family is: Dick Gallo, L.F.; Bob Horr, r.f.; Dick Drums, c.; Francis Ditto, r.g.; Bill Cuddy, l.g.

For Aquinas: Jack Burns or Jerry McGuire, l.f.; Greg Britz, r.f.; Fred Wagner or Chuck Thomas, c.; Danny O'Brien, r.g.; Ron Mack, l.g.

The reserve game will begin at 2 o'clock.

Aquinas opened the season by defeating Benjamin Franklin High School at Franklin, Saturday, 76 to 64.
