minutes for 12 noon and 2 for evening.

Anyone with a government job (this takes in a big chunk of the population as almost everything has been nationalized) is not permitted to attend church. If discovered, he is liable to lose his job or suffer imprisonment in a labor camp.

"A priest in our town," the letter said, "was asked why lights were burned during the night time on certain days. The priest replied 'What can I do if they will with government jobs and even certain party members, have to come secretly to me at night to be married with a religious ceremony, to receive the Sacraments, or to have their children baptized.'"

Giving accounts of actual persecution, the writer told of a Bishop while waiting for a train being set upon by Communist youths. The young people stoned and mocked the Bishop in order to create an incident.

ABOUT warning, one of the priests said he was told to be on the watch for a priest who had been arrested and held in a hospital but it is not known definitely whether he survived or not.

THE CORNELLEMAN told of a farmer fined for transporting the parish priest and of the Nazis burning and ransacking a historic Church more than 400 years old.

A religious lady, well on in years was arrested and imprisoned for organizing prayer meetings among the faithful of the village to pray for rain during the severe dry spell, this year. The writer told Monsignor Cleary he found it difficult to lead a normal life in Yugoslavia.
