Church-State Peace Seen Under New Mexican Chief

Mexico City — (NC) — The inauguration of Adolfo Ruiz Cortines as the new president of Mexico promises a continuation of the peaceful Church-State relations of the past 12 years. This opinion is expressed by two leading members of the Mexican Hierarchy: Archbishop Luis Maria Martinez of Mexico City and Octaviano Marquez of Puebla. BOTH COMMENTED on President Ruiz' inaugural address. They stated that its announced program emphasizing peace and progress is in agreement with the needs and desires of all the people. Archbishop Martinez added: "I trust that the Church and State will continue in the same peace which has prevailed during the last two administrations." ARCHBISHOP Marquez stated that the election of the new chief executive has been "favorably received by Mexico because it includes the principles of good relationship which were shown during the past 12 years through cordial understanding between the civil and ecclesiastical authorities on the basis of mutual respect." The two previous presidents were Miguel Aleman, the outgoing chief executive, and Manuel Avila Camacho.

Priest, Indian 'Get In Act'

New Orleans — (NC) — With an "in-gain-out-gain" priest and Indian once more included in the plans, a bronze statuary group honoring the founder of New Orleans will be erected here on Union Station Circle when the new railroad depot is completed. Original plans called for figures of a priest and an Indian beside Jean Baptiste Le Moyne, Sieur de Beausieu, the city's founder. When lack of money for the project became evident, it was decided to drop the priest and Indian from the group, but now they are back in the plans.

No need for the Sandman when you sleep under an Electric Bed Covering!

Cold nights, cold sheets, cold trips to the closet for extra coverings... these are causes of fretful sleep. They cheat you of tomorrow's needed energy. For complete relaxation, enjoy the gentle, restful warmth of an electric bed covering — one light weight covering in place of a heavy load of blankets. Sleep comes quickly between pre-warmed sheets and temperature changes won't affect you because automatic controls keep a safe, even warmth all night long.

An ideal Christmas gift for someone special! In choice of color and size with single or double control units.
