R. B. I. Success Story

William W. Huling Before entering R.B.I. I knew little of anything of accounting procedures. After two years of study in the pleasant surroundings of R.B.I., it is with complete confidence that I am now doing cost accounting work and various other office tasks at J. Hanger and Smith Company. The friendly understanding of the Institute's instructors makes the student feel at home. I consider my enrollment at R.B.I. the first and most important move toward achieving my goal.

NEW And NOW

June Haver has caused quite a stir by her entrance as a postulant into the Sisters of Charity. True, the switch from movie-land to the religious life is a big one and rare, but it has happened before. Some readers will remember Pearl White of the once-famous "Perils of Pauline" series. She too entered the convent in France, setting aside a very profitable career.

THE SYNDICATED news reports balance Miss Haver's vocation with an "unfortunate love affair." We hope she gets a chuckle out of this as most of the good Sisters do—it makes better "copy" that way!

I DON'T SUPPOSE anyone can reasonably expect to go to the theatre during months with an R in them and not encounter a certain amount of pulmonary sabotage in the audience. A certain amount of coughing is inevitable, but some abuse the privilege. Actors have a reputation for being temperamental, but in the long run they ask to entertain us, they should not be forced to compete with us.

EVERYBODY is very upset about Charlie Chaplin, the greatest clown of our day. His latest picture "Limelight" is being boycotted by several national organizations because of refusal to answer questions regarding communistic leanings and because he has never taken out U. S. citizenship papers. Chaplin is a British subject.

Chaplin has been in and out of more scrapes than most in his profession and has had a quartette of teen-age brides, the "eldest" being No. 3—twenty-year-old Paulette Goddard.

NOW MARRIED to Oona O'Neil, daughter of the playwright, Chaplin is the father of four small children. Two sons by an earlier marriage served during the last war and are now appearing with their father in "Limelight."

One's only hope is that too many innocent people will not suffer by the boycott. Scores of hard working actors and technical personnel are bound to sink on Chaplin's ship, innocent people who fortunately do not have Chaplin's reputation, and unfortunately do not share his pocket-book.
