

Interracial Work Pushed By Negro Leader

New York (NC)—The experience of Catholic schools and colleges has proven that racial integration can work, Roy Wilkins, National Association for the Advancement of Colored People administrator, told a social action forum of the Catholic Interracial Council here. In many areas of the country where racial segregation prevails, the "sharp and definitive" action of Catholic Bishops and school authorities in opening Catholic schools on an equal basis to white and Negro children has given their communities proof that integrated education can be accomplished without violence, Mr. Wilkins said.

HE CITED as an example, the Archdiocese of St. Louis where "a Negro Catholic youngster can go to school with other Catholic children from the kindergarten to the university, and not be segregated on the basis of color or race."

The five school segregation cases now awaiting decision by the U. S. Supreme Court are of vital concern to people interested in good human relations, because "the segregated school is basic to the maintenance of segregation in other areas of life," Mr. Wilkins said.

He said that he regarded the abolition of segregation as the "number one proposition in the race relations field today."

SEPARATION of the races is probably the basic cause of the tensions and misunderstandings between whites and Negroes, Mr. Wilkins said.

"You can't expect Negroes not to be suspicious of white people if they never get an opportunity to associate with them on terms of give-and-take equality," Mr. Wilkins declared. "You can't expect white people not to believe the myths and untruths told about Negroes if they never get the opportunity to mingle with them."

Gondolas Escort Venice Cardinal

Venice, Italy (NC)—Almost every launch and gondola in this city of canals joined in the procession which met Angelo Cardinal Roncalli when he came here to take possession of his new See.

The former Papal Nuncio to Paris arrived at the outskirts of Venice by auto and then was escorted to a great launch which headed the procession through the city's canals to the cathedral. Cardinal Roncalli took over the post left vacant by the late Patriarch Carlo Agostini, who was named to the Sacred College of Cardinals in December but died before he received the Red Hat.

The maritime procession that escorted the new Patriarch to St. Mark's square was one of the most impressive and gaily decorated that this city has witnessed in decades. All along the route flags, handkerchiefs and banners waved in welcome to the Cardinal.

Bishop Appeals To U.S. Jews

Haifa, Israel (NC)—The Melchite-Rite Catholic Bishop in Haifa has appealed to Jewish leaders in the United States to exert their influence with the Israeli government concerning property of the Church of Israel.

Declaring it is impossible to run many of his charitable institutions because the properties are in the possession of the Israeli, Archbishop George Hakim, Bishop of Acre-Haifa, made a plea for sincere consideration of the situation on the part of the American Jewish leaders.

In appealing to public opinion outside of Israel, Archbishop Hakim noted that all his attempts to regain Church properties now controlled by the state have been in vain.
