Nun-Doctor Delivers 1,000 Babies At Missionary Hospital On Formosa

Taipei, Formosa — (NC) — The Franciscan Missionary Sisters of the Immaculate Conception have just celebrated the fourth anniversary of the start of their work in the Formosan port city of Kaohsiung. Sister Hilda Meier, M.D., already has delivered her 1,000th baby at St. Joseph's Hospital there.

ALTHOUGH the congregation to which Sister Hilda belongs was founded in Brazil in 1911 by Elizabeth Tomback, later known as Mother Immaculate of Jesus, the present motherhouse in Paterson, N. J. The congregation has more than 800 Sisters.

Cardinal Cites Upsurge In U. S. Missions

St. Louis, Mo. — (NC) — Missionary activity can be taken as a barometer, measuring the spiritual level of an era in a diocese or a nation. There now is a "tremendous upsurge" in zeal for the missions in the United States.

CARDINAL SPELLMAN expressed his views in an address at a luncheon in honor of Bishop Joseph Oliver Bowers, S.V.D., following his consecration as Bishop of Accra, Gold Coast, Africa, in our Lady of the Gulf Church, here.

Little by little it is becoming conscious of its unity, its power and its common purpose. The shadows are lifting from this land; the mists are rolling out to sea. A new day is ushering in a new order when Africa will take its place in the council of nations to contribute its share to the progress of the world and at the same time a sacred trust is committed to the Church.

Red-Imprisoned Bishop Pens Letter To Mothers

New York — (NC) — From his residence in Shanghai he has been a virtual prisoner of Chinese Communist for the last two years, Bishop James E. Walsh, M.M., former Superior General of Maryknoll, has written a poignant tribute to mothers.

"The world would never wear its rubbers and brush its teeth and eat its porridge, were it not for mothers," the Bishop wrote. "The world would never say its prayers or get into bed on time—or get out of bed on time—were it not for them. The world would never grow up and branch out and reach man's estate at all, were it not for the care it receives in its cradle years and its formative stages."

The Bishop's views were expressed in a Mother's Day editorial called "The Hand of the Mother," in the May issue of Maryknoll, the Bishop wrote. "The world would never say its prayers or get into bed on time—or get out of bed on time—were it not for them. The world would never grow up and branch out and reach man's estate at all, were it not for the care it receives in its cradle years and its formative stages."

The influence that the Blessed Mother has in a world where the unselfish devotion of mothers prevails in a society fashioned by selfish men also was emphasized by Bishop Walsh who wrote: "The mothers of the world could not make a good society, much as they wanted to. The sons of mothers would not make it, even if they could. But God gave His big human family another Mother who could and would and did."

Recently an Italian official complained of Protestant missionaries who come to the country as tourists, and then "set up shop" and request repeated extensions of their residence permits. Such individuals, the official said, should properly inform the Italian authorities of what they intend to do before actually coming to Italy.
