Improvements, Girls' Work Viewed At Holy Angels

Sunday, June 14 was "open house" day at Holy Angels Home, on Winton Road North. The interior had been recently redecorated, new lighting installed and more modern furniture added in parts of the house.

Friends of the Institution were invited by the Sisters and the girls to see the improvements and greet the Sisters and the girls. A short variety program was presented by the girls to entertain their guests. This was in the nature of a recital to show their proficiency in dancing and was enjoyed by the guests.

MOST OF THE costumes and some of the "party" dresses were made by the girls themselves in their sewing classes. Afterwards, the girls acted as hostesses to conduct the visitors through the House and to serve light refreshments.

Holy Angels Home is a specialized boarding school for teenage girls who will benefit from an integrated program of scholastic education, vocational training and social adjustment. The formal education is carried through elementary grades to a complete high-school business training and is supervised by the Catholic School Department of the Diocese of Rochester, under the N. Y. State Board of Regents.

Vocational instruction in home-making, domestic science, crafts, dancing etc. supplement the usual school work. Opportunities are also provided for actual experience in the community through supervised work and service projects.

RELIGIOUS AND moral training are important parts of the program to the end of fitting these girls to take their places later in the community. The staff consists of four Sisters, two lay teachers, three educational instructors and a social worker.

Holy Angels Home is conducted by the Sisters of Our Lady of Charity of the Refuge. This Congregation was founded by St. John Eudes in the 17th century in France and is the oldest religious congregation in the Church, carrying on this specialized service for girls and young women.
