SPEAKS AT NOTRE DAME

South Bend, Ind.—Archbishop John F. O'Hara, C.S.C., of Philadelphia is shown as he addressed more than 900 religious superiors and novice mistresses at the Institute of Spirituality at the University of Notre Dame here.

'Heroic' Motive Urged For Religious Vocations

Notre Dame, Ind. - (RNS) - Superiors of religious orders were urged here to "appeal to the heroic" in aspirants to the religious life, by Archbishop John F. O'Hara, C.S.C.

Addressing more than 900 religious superiors and novice mistresses at the Institute of Spirituality, Archbishop O'Hara said that "young people are capable of heroic sacrifice once they have a proper motive."

THE INSTITUTE, which is an outgrowth of the Congress of Religions held here last year, seeks to provide a firm theological formation for nuns in their responsibilities as superiors and counselors.

The Archbishop said that the religious life is a work of faith and that "only faith can give rise to it; only faith can sustain it; only faith can carry it through to final perseverance."

Stressing the duties of Catholics "to share the treasures of their faith," Archbishop O'Hara declared that "we who live in the broad daylight of Divine Grace must never lose sight of the duty we owe to those who still sit in the darkness."

"THE CHANNELS of grace must be kept free from the needs of secular pursuits," he said. "If the scale of values puts prayer in the last place, there can be no hope of perseverance in the religious life."

"If secular studies encroach on meditation in the novitiate, there can be no proper religious formation of novices. There is no substitute for prayer in the life of the religious."

Archbishop O'Hara called on the laity and religious to join the Church's bishops and priests in combating "the works of iniquity in today's world when for the first time the powers of atheism have a world-wide organization."

In a reference to the armed forces, Archbishop O'Hara noted that nearly 5,000 veterans are now studying for the priesthood, many of them with the Trappists.

Job Guarantees Needed For Refugees

(N.A.W.C. News Service)

New York - A minimum of 130,000 home and job guarantees are necessary to insure that a fair share of Catholics will be brought into this country during the next three years under the new Refugee Relief Act, Magr. Edward E. Swanson, executive director of War Relief Services - National Catholic Welfare Conference, declared.

"Diocesan Resettlement Directors throughout the country will be ready to receive these assurances which must be sent to the headquarters of War Relief Services - NCWC here in New York," the Monsignor explained.

THE MONSIGNOR said that WRS-NCWC, as it was in 1948 when the Displaced Persons program was inaugurated, is ready to move in obtaining as many home and job assurances as it can to assist the refugees, expelled, escapees and residents of overpopulated areas.

"Passage of the Refugee Relief Act of 1953 will bring hope and courage to tens of thousands of persons still suffering as the result of World War II," the Monsignor said.

The legislation will permit 214,000 refugees and persons from overpopulated areas to enter the United States during the next three years.

THE MONSIGNOR pointed out that the major consideration has been given to the German expelled, 55,000 of whom are allowed to enter the country under the new law. These are people of German descent who were expelled from their homes by Communist dominated regimes in Eastern European countries.

The bill allows 35,000 escapees from Communist countries to enter the United States. Monsignor Swanson said that this provision is a recognition of the serious problems being faced by Western Germany, Austria and Italy as a result of the overcrowding occasioned by persons escaping at the risk of their lives from Communist tyranny.

"Displaced persons who have been in Europe since the end of the war and other refugees are included under the definition of 'escapees,'" the Monsignor said.

In addition, 10,000 visas are permitted for the same types of persons living in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization countries.

Washington, D. C. - (RNS) - Contributions to non-public elementary and secondary schools set an all-time record last year, the Department of Commerce reported.

The non-public schools, most of which are parochial schools, received $724,000,000, the Department estimated. The 1957 figure was $615,000,000.

In 1949, only $18,000,000 was contributed to these non-public schools. The figures indicate a great increase in support for religious schools in the last four years.

Louis, Ky. - (NC) - When the 31,000 students taught by the Sisters of Loretto at the foot of the Cross return to their classrooms next month, they will find their teachers wearing a new religious veil.

THE LORETTINES have originated in Kentucky, Ohio, Alabama, Missouri, Texas, New Mexico, Illinois, Colorado, California, Arizona and Wyoming. They conduct two colleges, one junior college, some 30 high schools and almost 90 grade schools. Loretto missionaries have also served in China, Thailand, Mexico, and elsewhere.

Rites Honor Father Baker 'The Padre Of The Poor'

Lackawanna, N. Y. - (NC) - Thousands from the Lackawanna, Buffalo and Niagara frontier areas came here for the annual Father Baker Day ceremonies, honoring the memory of Magr. Nelson H. Baker, founder and head of Our Lady of Victory Institutions.

Bishop Leonard Raymond of Allahabad, India, who presided and gave the sermon at the Solemn Requiem Mass for "the Padre of the Poor," told the vast crowd: "This day is really not one of mourning but a day of thanksgiving that Father Baker lived."

FATHER BAKER died on July 29, 1936 at the age of 55. "The monument to Father Baker that will endure for ages," Bishop Raymond said, "is not in the marble, brick and mortar of the National Shrine and Basilica of Our Lady of Victory and the many Our Lady of Victory institutions, but in the souls of boys he lifted off the streets and nurtured to manhood. It lives in the derelict and abandoned children whom he saved for the Kingdom of Heaven. Father Baker's spirit remains, and so long as there are men and women inspired by his ideals, that spirit will grow and will fructify and produce fruit generation after generation."

After the Mass there was a procession to the grave of Father Baker in Holy Cross cemetery, where prayers were said. Those who took part in the ceremonies included representatives of more than 100 civic, religious, social and fraternal organizations.
