Churches To Spend $450,000,000 On New Buildings

Washington, D.C. (RNS)—American churches will erect $450,000,000 worth of new buildings this year, the Departments of Commerce and Labor predicted here.

This will represent an increase of $59,000,000, or 16.8 per cent, over the total recorded in 1952, the agencies said.

Non-public schools and colleges will erect $410,000,000 worth of building this year, the report also predicted, an increase of $59,000,000, or 16.8 per cent, over 1952.

Non-public hospital and institutional construction, however, will total only $300,000,000, a drop of $94,000,000 from a year ago, the departments said.

SOCIAL AND recreational construction by non-profit organizations will reach an estimated $150,000,000, compared with $125,000,000 last year. In the opinion of the government forecasters.

Throughout the nation, $31,000,000,000 worth of new construction is expected this year compared with $32,638,000,000 last year, a gain of 6 per cent. Thus, church and school construction is moving ahead at a more rapid pace than other building.

9 Mercy Nuns Take First Vows At Motherhouse Rite

Nine young women pronounced their first vows as Sisters of Mercy in an impressive ceremony held Monday morning in the Motherhouse Chapel. His Excellency, Bishop Kearney, presided at the ceremony.

The Mass of the Holy Ghost was celebrated by the Bishop assisted by the Rev. Richard Torrey, Chaplain of the Mercy Motherhouse, and the Rev. Albert Shamon, Professor of English at St. Andrew's Seminary.

At the completion of the Mass, the white veils, symbols of the two-year Novitiate, were exchanged for black. The Newly Professed then prostrated before the altar while the "Te Deum" was chanted by the Sisters choir under the direction of Sister Mary Edwina.

The following are the young women who pronounced their temporary vows:
Sister Mary Petrus Sullivan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter B. Sullivan of Our Lady of Lourdes Parish, Rochester, New York.

Sister Mary Camille DeMars, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. DeMars, St. Alphonsus Parish, Auburn, New York.

Sister Mary Gerard Erb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert J. Erb, Holy Family Parish, Rochester, New York.

Sister Mary Malachy Bernard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Valerio Bernard, Holy Rosary Parish, Rochester, New York.

Sister Mary Gracia L'Esperance, daughter of Mrs. Armand L'Esperance, St. Louis Parish, Pittsford, New York.

Sister Mary Basil Wahl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Wahl, Immaculate Conception Parish, Rochester, New York.

Sister Mary Therese Magin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Magin, St. Margaret Mary's Parish, Rochester, New York.

Sister Mary Aid Lacagnina, daughter of Mrs. Michael Lacagnina, Our Lady of Mt. Carmel, Rochester, New York.

Sister Mary Benigna Bayer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Bayer, St. James Parish, Rochester, New York.

In his address to the newly professed Sisters and their families, Bishop Kearney explained that every vocation has "two sides": God's side and that of the individual.

"The personal side," he said, "includes a willingness to work for God, a generous love of God, an eagerness to interpret Catholic life to the young and the sick and the poor of the world, an individual spirit to honor Christ by serving Him completely."

God's side of a vocation, he went on, is "an inspiration entirely independent of the individual's feelings. His whispered invitation to these religious is a transcendent phase of inner grace which gave them motivation and inspiration."

Praising the part of parents and family in promoting vocations, the Bishop declared: "The greatest tribute God can give to parental care of a boy or girl is His choice of one member of a family for His service."

"Our youngsters from kindergarten to university will be enriched for scores of years by the lives of devoted women like these who undertake a hard apostolate to share the priesthood of Christ in reaching souls," the Bishop said.

PRESENT in the sanctuary were: the Very Rev. John S. Randall, the Reverend Fathers Edward Roth, S.J., of Canisius College, Charles Francis Adams, O.F.M., of Siena College, Edward Zimmer, John Morgan, Francis Hester, Elmer Heindl and E. Charles Bauer.

Pope Sends Relief To Quake Victims
Rome—(RNS)—His Holiness Pope Pius XII sent a message of sympathy to the Most Rev. Marinos Makrionitis, S.J., Archbishop of Athens for victims of the earthquakes on the Ionian Islands in Greece.

The Pontiff voiced his "profound commiseration" for the victims, their families, refugees, and all those who suffered losses "especially our beloved Catholics" to whom he also sent a comforting Apostolic benediction. Meanwhile, the Sacred Congregation for the Oriental Church sent a generous relief offering. In the name of Pope Pius, to Archbishop Makrionitis for distributions to the disaster victims.

Prelate Orders End Of Bingo In Churches

New Orleans—(RNS)—Bingo and other games of chance were ordered "absolutely discontinued" in Catholic churches of the Archdiocese of New Orleans by Archbishop Joseph F. Rummel.

The order was issued in a pastoral letter issued by the archbishop to clarify "uncertainty" about the use of games of chance to raise funds for charitable, religious and educational purposes.

Earlier this month, Archbishop Rummel had promised Catholic cooperation with a state police drive aimed at eliminating all types of gaming and had told Catholic churches to wind up their bingo, raffles and similar games by Aug. 31.

The Aug. 31 deadline had been set by Col. Francis Grevenberg, state police superintendent.

COL. GREVENBERG takes the position that charity bingo and other gaming devices are prohibited by Louisiana's anti-gambling laws.

In New Orleans which has an ordinance permitting charity games, such games are exempt from state law because they are not operated for profit "as a business."

In his letter, Archbishop Rummel said he wanted to make it clear that "at no time" had Catholic organizations run games "as a business or for the profit of professionals."

"Precisely, these operations have been social affairs out of which the participants derived as much pleasure as their contributions benefited the respective institutions," he said.

"FEW IF ANY" were conscious of any law-breaking intent. Neither did the participants sense any risk of loss in these operations, for they made their contributions spontaneously, willingly and not extravagantly; nor have we ever had reason to believe that their dependents suffered because of such contributions.

"Rather were they aware that in this state, by a time-honored tradition, fortified in the metropolitan area of New Orleans by a city ordinance, churches, schools and charitable agencies were not included in the prohibiting legislation."

That civil authorities had permitted charity games in the past, said the archbishop, was prompted by the fact that religious and charitable agencies did not operate their games "as a business" or use professional operators.

66 Leathernecks Give Blood To Save Chinese Boy

KANEHOE BAY, Hawaii—(RNS)—A sermon by a Catholic chaplain inspired 66 Marines here to donate blood which saved the life of a six-year-old Chinese boy suffering from hypoplastic anemia, a disease which requires frequent transfusions.

Chaplain Raymond J. Reed of St. Paul's, who spoke of Jack Yale's needs, said the response was overwhelming. Each of the Marines donated a pint of blood to young Jack.

"Marines are always generous to a cause they believe in," Chaplain Reed said, "but I certainly didn't expect so many donors. Since Jack doesn't need all of the blood given by Kanehoe's Leathernecks, some of it will be given to the Children's Hospital in Honolulu to help other children."

Oakland, Calif.—(RNS)—A California measure which granted property tax exemption to religious and other private, non-profit elementary and secondary schools was ruled unconstitutional here by Alameda County Superior Court.

By a 2-1 vote, the court nullified the measure which had been approved by the voters in a referendum held during the general elections last Nov. 4.

Following the court's decision, the defendants in a taxpayers' suit immediately announced they would appeal the ruling to the state supreme court.

In Sacramento, the state capital, Dixwell L. Pierce, secretary of the Board of Equalization, described the decision as "persuasive but not the last word."

THE MAJORITY of schools affected are Catholic, although the Lutherans, Seventh-day Adventists, and several other Protestant denominations operate some elementary and high schools.

However, religious groups were divided over the law, some actively favoring it, while others were opposed.

The judges did not hand down a formal, written decision. Presiding Superior Judge A. J. Woolsey said only that the court had considered the case and had ruled in favor of Alfred L. Lundberg, former president of a Bay Area transit company, he had filed a taxpayer's suit in February, challenging the constitutionality of the law which the voters passed by a narrow margin after a bitterly contended campaign.

The referendum was initiated by the California Taxpayers Alliance which had passed a bill passed by the Legislature and signed by the governor authorizing the tax exemption for church and other private non-profit schools.

JUDGE WOOLSEY was joined in ruling the measure—Proposition Three in the referendum—unconstitutional by Alameda County Superior Judge Cecil Mosbacher. The third judge, James R. Agre, who dissented, made no comment on the decision.

Defendants in the suit were the city of Oakland, Alameda County, the State of California, and the Roman Catholic Welfare Corporation.

The court gave their attorneys ten days in which to file opposing briefs. The judges were then expected to hand down their written opinion.

Judge Woolsey told newsmen that the basis of the ruling was Section 1-C of Article B of the state constitution, as amended in 1944 to permit tax exemption to hospitals, religious and charitable institutions. He said that the voters at that time intended to include educational institutions in the welfare exemption clause, they would have said so.

IN A SEMBLANCE comment, Judge Mosbacher said that the welfare exemption clause apply only to (Continued on page 8)

Cardinal McIntyre Calls Tax Decision 'Confusing'

LOS ANGELES—(RNS)—James Francis Cardinal McIntyre, Archbishop of Los Angeles, termed "confusing" the Alameda County Superior Court's ruling that tax exemption for non-profit private school property is unconstitutional.

The Cardinal said the decision was "confusing and upsetting" because:

It affects only Alameda County and not the rest of the state; it "upsets the scales of justice as provided by the vote of the sovereign people of California"; the ruling was by a split decision; "usually the law in these circumstances requires a unanimous opinion"; and the decision "attempts to disqualify the action of the state legislature and the governor and the vote of the people."

Cardinal McIntyre, who said he was pleased that the ruling would be appealed to the state supreme court, said the Alameda County decision also was confusing because schools for those of college age and above presently are exempt from taxation under California law.

"If the law in such circumstances requires a unanimous opinion, it will not be exceeded. Contradictions, as well as discrimination, never occurred, at least to the practical mind."

The Cardinal said that "all elements of apparent justice" have been considered in the referendum at which tax exemption for private non-profit schools was approved by a narrow margin last fall.

"A split decision, rendered without written opinion," he said, "merely would the will of the majority and the legislature; and that was not a purely question of constitutionality."
