Symposium Speaker Holds Segregation Is Violation Of Christian Moral Law

By WALT KOLESNIK Racial segregation is not only contrary to the principles of democracy but is a violation of Christian moral law. So said Arlene M. Klem before a Symposium at Nazareth College Tuesday afternoon, Mar. 9. His Excellency Bishop Kearney presided.

THE SYMPOSIUM, in honor of St. Thomas Aquinas, is presented annually by students in the Honors Course in the department of philosophy under the direction of the Rev. Edward J. Lintz on or near March 7, the feast of the patron saint of Christian education.

Four papers were read, each dealing with some aspect of segregation, the constitutionality of which is currently being considered by the United States Supreme Court. Dorothy Stolla, junior Latin major of Canastota, N.Y., outlined the basic philosophic concepts involved. The other speakers were based their analyses of the question on the principles of Christian philosophy formulated by St. Thomas 13th Century doctor of the church.

AMONG WOMEN Monthly Message

Today I should like to pass on to my readers some material found in the N.C.W. Monthly Message for March 1954. This excellent eight page bulletin, in its 11th issue, is a monthly message to all N.C.W. organizations. A copy goes to the president of each affiliated organization, but for a variety of good reasons some of the material found therein does not reach every member of every organization.

Many presidents allocate a portion of their meeting time to a condensed report of the Monthly Message but, since many of my readers find it impossible to read the entire message, I am going to pass on some highlights from the current issue.

Under "Good Reading" we find listed the following books: National Catholic Almanac, 1954—This 50th anniversary edition presents its usual wide range of factual information of interest to Catholics. It also includes Marian Year features, a biography of Blessed Pius X whose canonization will take place in May, and many other items to make this truly a Catholic reference library in one volume. St. Anthony's Guild, Paterson, N. J. $2.50 paper bound "Stretching the Family Income" by Robert and Helen Cissell. A practical and very readable guide to family economics. Joseph F. Wagner, Inc. 33 Park Place, New York 7, N. Y. $3.00.

"Missions for Margaret" — by Mary Fabyan Windsett. An interesting life of St. Margaret. Mary to increase devotion to the Sacred Heart. The Grail, St. Meinrad, Ind. $2.00.

Pamphlets—"The Father, The Head of the Home" — Eighteen addresses given at the 1953 convention of the National Catholic Conference on Family Life which dealt particularly with the theme of the convention. "The Father, the Head of the Home" Family Life Bureau, N.C.C.W., Board of Directors, 1954. — Miscellaneous copies of statements adopted by the Board of Directors of N.C.C.W. meeting January 25-27, 1954. WHAT'S DOING AT THE DALY'S Easy Does It!

By Mary Tinley Daly "Go ahead!" the Three Middletons urged as the Head of the House and I contemplated a few days' trip. "Well, keep ahead!"

Of course they could. After all, they're teen-agers and well educated with the ways of the household. But I'm a nonchalant approach. Sometimes they become so engrossed in their own affairs—with school and basketball—and this was no exception. I worried... and Pat, the older sister, away too... and they'd get up in time for daily Mass, as they've set themselves to do this Lent!

Would the one assigned each day take full responsibility for their own affairs? Home from school, he'd be there when Ginny arrived, prepare the balanced dinner planned ahead, be sure Ginny had her bath, did homework and got to bed without a big argument?

"Don't be such a worry wart," the Head of the House yawned the night before our departure. "And for heaven's sake don't stay up any longer making out those lists. They probably won't read 'em anyway."

I prepared one last memorandum to be tacked to the kitchen bulletin board: 1. DON'T KEEP the hot-water heater up to the top. IT MIGHT BLOW UP.

2. See that all windows and doors are locked, lights turned off each night. 3. Here are numbers to call: (followed by the telephone numbers of the police and fire departments, of the Fallons on one side, the Longs on the other, the rectory, Dr. Rude, Aunt Margaret and Aunt Virginia, the hotel where we could be reached).

"Anything else we ought to tell them?" I asked anxiously. "One more," the Head of the House yawned, getting into the act now. He sat down and wrote something then added it to the bulletin board: "HAVE FUN. GOD BLESS YOU!"

EVEN ON A short trip such as this, the Head of the House has the knack of getting the "feel" of any place we go, ferreting out restaurants that specialize in local cookery, striking up acquaintance with old residents, unearthing a feature story from seemingly unfruitful fields.

It was quite like old times—"trotting" as the Head of the House calls it—and the inevitable visits to newspaper offices, and to churches for our "three wishes."

"We could stay over another night," the Head of the House said when we were only 200 miles from home. "After all, the kids aren't expecting us till tomorrow."

"We could get home by nine or ten tonight," I said. "Let's go home!" This was the first pang of homesickness. Besides, the house was probably a shambles. No doubt the Three Middletons were having a battle royal such as they often stage even when we're right on the spot.

THE HOUSE was strangely quiet as we drove up in front, unlocked the front door (they had remembered to lock up). Of course, upstairs radios were going—two different programs—but that's normal ("We study better with music").

The downstairs was in perfect order, showed evidence of recent dusting and vacuuming. Even only out-of-place was the carefully prepared list. These were stuck in solitary grandeur on the bulletin board, was the message left by the Head of the House: "HAVE FUN. GOD BLESS YOU!"

SEE WHAT I CAN DO? I'll tell you how I learned. My girl and my friends are "village boys" — peasants of villages along the Nile River in Egypt. Formerly we had no schools, no training in health, no one to teach the boys modern trades and farming. We had no medicines nor dispensaries. Not until Fr. Ayoub got here. This energetic Jesuit missionary trained and brought teachers to our villages. Now we have free schools, dispensaries and social centers. In our cook and sew and keep the houses clean. The boys learn trades and farming methods. But there are many villages where Fr. Ayoub hasn't started any of these work yet. He needs the funds. We'll help him with your gift! We'll pay for my books this year. We'll pay for my books this year. We'll pay for my books this year. We'll pay for my books this year.

OUR MISSIONARIES SAY YOUR MASSES AS SOON AS THEY ARE RECEIVED, YOUR OFFERINGS ARE THEIR ONLY SUPPORT. THE BLIND, THE SICK, AND THE LAME? Christ taught charity by word and example. So our missionaries must not only teach the Word of God but also show His mercy to the destitute and sick. Cardinal Tisserant seeks help for the poor blind in India who needs a MISSION HOSPITAL in Tellico. A brick $10; medical kit $15; lavatory $3; bed $25.

SISTER HILARIAN is in her two-year training period with the Poor Clares at Karuvannur, India. We need $150 yearly for her. Won't you help her with this sum in any payment? She'll bless you in her prayers at the Holy Altar.

KEEP HER IMAGE We offer a specially prepared picture of "Our Lady of the Near East." Each gift of $1.00 or more for Mary's new FATIMA SHRINE in JORDAN. His She you gift yet? Don't forget to have a shrine in this shrine so near.

HAS CHRIST A PLACE IN YOUR WILL? "GREEN" FOR FIRST COMMUNION? Green for St. Patrick. But our tale: wear white for First Communion. We hope many friends will send a "green" gift for the wonderful group of over 250 lay women who read up and prepare for the Great Day all the girls in 125 Lebanese mountain villages where there is no church nor priest. Help us give each poor child a NEW OUTFIT ($10).

I NEED A HOME In Jerusalem today there are many homeless like this chap. Our wonderful Benedictine Sisters on Mt. Calvary shelter many but they go to bed with a heavy heart these nights, for they have no room to take in more. The Superior writes that she could accommodate several more if she had the means to make some alterations in the convent. The community is so poor now that the Sisters often go without proper food to give more to the poor. Where is there a shrine for them? They need to make more room for these innocent ones!

SAMI NEEDS A FRIEND. He is in the first of six years (totaling in our seminary in Iraq. Can you help him with $100 yearly for this period? Send weekly, monthly, yearly, or as you like. Heaven's blessing and his endless thanks will be yours. Near East Missions 480 Lexington Ave. at 46th St. New York 17, N. Y.

Legion Condemns 'La Lupa' Movie

New York (NC)—The National Legion of Decency has announced that it has evaluated in Class C, condemned, the Italian-language movie, "La Lupa," (The She Wolf), distributed by Jules Levey.

The Legion posted the following objection against the film: "This picture in the treatment of the story it tells seriously offends Christian and traditional standards of morality and decency by reason of gross suggestiveness in costuming, situations and dialogue."

TV-Til-Midnight New Problem In School, Say Nuns

Cincinnati, O.—(NC)—Failure of parents to control children's television habits is resulting in poor classroom work, particularly in the lower grades, teaching Sisters reported here. "Too much television," was a complaint voiced by Sisters and supervisors trying to deal with the problem of sleepy and inattentive children.

A survey in one Cincinnati parochial school showed that out of 188 children, who watched television, 79 said they turned away from the TV set at 9 p.m.; 60 at 10 p.m.; 21 at 11 p.m.; and 28 at midnight or later.

One pupil, who "consistently led his classmates in scholastic achievement," said he was "ashamed to admit" he did not watch TV at all.
