New Year's Offering

Cast Readies 'Brigadoon' For Weekend Production

The Music Theatre production of the Broadway musical, "Brigadoon," is set for the Auditorium Theatre on New Year's eve and New Year's night.

According to producer Tom McCarthy, directors Noreen Carey and Sue Wigg, both Nazareth College graduates, have deleted all material that made the Broadway production objectionable in any way, in order to make the musical more fitting for family patronage.

Leading roles in "Brigadoon" are carried by John Peck, Carol Taylor, Daniel Morgan, Jane Crocker, Ray DeVoll, Anne Piacentini and Thomas O'Connell.

BALLET SEQUENCES will be executed by members of the Mercury Ballet under the direction of Olive McCue. Technical staff includes Jack Pophan, stage manager, assisted by Terry David, Dale Halliday, Wally Comfort, Margaret Volpe, Paul Lauth, and Mary Geen.

Other cast members are John McStravick, Rose Mary Larson, Jane Carey, Mary Jane Palermo, Rose Marie Vella, Connie Kelly, Jane Eilers, Mary Williams, Angeline Zona, Reno Calarco, Jim Callan, Joe Barone, John Freitas, Frank Kelly, Pete Pizzo.

Teens Spend 8 Hours At TV In Week

Cincinnati— (NC) —A survey of the television habits of 460 seniors in four local Catholic high schools has indicated that these teen-agers watch TV for an average of about eight hours a week.

Asked if watching television "had a tendency to interfere with studying and doing your homework," 245 said "yes" and 215 answered "no" in the survey conducted by Father Joseph Kerr, S.M., of Purcell High School.

The questionaire, designed to gather facts for a televised discussion by students, was distributed to seniors in Purcell (boys), Regina and St. Mary's High Schools and St. Ursula's Academy (all girls).

The 244 girls who replied said they spent an average of four and a third hours watching TV from Monday to Friday and another four hours over the weekend. The 216 boys answering listed an average of a little more than three and a half hours for the school week and close to four hours for the weekend.

Commercial-Free Shows Draw Christmas Praise

By PAUL CONTESTABLE

Our hats are off to the Colgate-Palmolive Peet Co. and the Anheuser-Busch Co. for the fine step they have taken to give Christmas its rightful place as the wonderful feast of the Birthday of Our Lord.

On Christmas Day, the Colgate Variety Hour featured an hour long presentation by Fred Waring and his Pennsylvanians that was most enjoyable to all who viewed it. Still more remarkable was the fact that the program was not interrupted for a commercial of any kind. Only briefly at the beginning and again at the end was any mention of the sponsor made. Not one word of praise or description of the products was made during the entire program.

The Anheuser-Busch Company on Dec. 23 took a similar step in the presentation of the Damon Runyon Theatre. In place of their usual mid-program commercial, the company merely had a group of carolers followed by a commercial-free Christmas greeting from the company's president.

In these days when commercialization of such a holy day are so prominent, these companies (and any others who may be unknown to this writer) deserve the highest praise. The respect shown by these companies to all who respect the feast of Christmas as the Birthday of Our Lord and not as a means to "make an extra buck" is truly worth our thanks.

Perhaps the most disgusting commercial viewed on TV over Christmas was the advertising done by the Oldsmobile company. Using traditional Christmas carols which have been respected by so many through the years, they twisted words and finally set the stage for their Christmas sales push. How anyone could completely ignore the feelings of the millions of people who do realize that Christmas is the Birthday of Our Lord is unbelievable.

Next Christmas perhaps other companies will follow the wonderful example set forth by the Colgate Palmolive Peet Co. and the Anheuser-Busch Co.

Camp Stella Maris Holds Annual Campers Party

Nearly 200 girls of grammar school age attended the annual Christmas party for the Camp Stella Maris campers Tuesday afternoon in Columbus Civic Centre Ballroom.

The girls were greeted by Rev. Eugene H. McFarland, director, and Miss Joanne Biegler, girls' director.

A group of counselors staged the entertainment by presenting a short play, followed by dancing by Miss Joanne Kuchman and songs by Deanna Sarkis and Joan Hayes. Miss Barbara Harzmann, waterfront director led the group singing assisted by Kathy Leahy.

Refreshments were served under the direction of Miss Patricia Parshall, secretary, assisted by the counselors.

As each girl and her guest left, Miss Biegler and Miss Harzmann presented them with the 1956 camp bulletin and a 1956 registration card. As in previous years, old campers are given the first opportunity to sign up for the new season.

Registration will be open to the public on Feb. 1. Previous to the party, Miss Biegler entertained the staff at a luncheon.

Texans Launch Drive Against City Evils

San Antonio, Tex. —(RNS)— The San Antonio Archdiocesan Council of Catholic Men announced the formation of a committee to spearhead a campaign against narcotics, alcoholism, pornographic literature and indecent movies in the area.

Members of other religious groups will be enlisted in the drive, said the Rev E. A Juraschek, archdiocesan moderator of Catholic Action.

Senior Scouts Plan Round-Up

Four senior girl scouts from the Stonewood District have been selected for the Senior Round-up to be held in Michigan next June. They are Peggy Bushie, Marie Lapi, Christine Hilliard and Cindy Rasbach. Alternates are Carol Benson, Kathy Fox and Nina Lapi.

A movie at the Lake Theatre today (Friday) and Saturday will be sponsored for their travelling expenses. A percentage of advance sale of tickets will be used for this project. Expenses are expected to be $125 each.

Tickets are available from Cadet Cleaners on Lake Ave., Cole Pharmacy, Lakedale Grocery and #42 school.
