CWV Award Presented To Rochesterian

Buffalo — Catholic War Veterans highest honor, the Order of St. Sebastian, was conferred upon the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Edmund Britt, P.A., pastor of St. Joseph Old Cathedral in Buffalo, and to Paul J. Dolan, former N. Y.

state commander of the Catholic War Veterans during the three day convention of the Erie County Chapter of the CWV.

DOLAN RESIDED in Buffalo until last August when he was transferred to Rochester where he is employed as the superintendent of training at the Rochester Post Office. The award was announced by the national committee of the Church permit Sunday work only when it is necessary. Very few young people need to work on Sunday.

The laws of the Church permit Sunday work only when it is necessary. Very few young people need to work on Sunday.

People are wrong who casually allow such labor because the child wants the extra money or because the employer says he needs help so badly.

Nonetheless, many adults would not do the work.

Money earned on Sunday, in contradiction to God's law and often at the cost of missing Mass, brings no blessings.

This growing practice of stores open on Sunday is part of the materialistic thinking of our age. But stores will close if there are no customers, and no clerks. Catholics, like many others, shop on Sunday unmeas-uredly, encouraging business place to violate the sacred Sabath.

The situation accompanying Dolan's medal mentioned the award was given for his untiring efforts in behalf of the CWV during the years he served as commander of his post, the Erie

County Chapter, the New York

State Department and as a national board member for 4 years.
