Virginia Salons Study Bingo Bill

Richmond, Va. (RNS)— A bill introduced in the Virginia Senate would permit bingo games if sponsored by religious, charitable or civic groups.

Proceeds of the game would go to a charitable cause and "no money or other thing of value" could be paid as a result of chance or lot to any player."

The measure was refferred to the General Laws Committee.

3 Priests Address DCCW Book Week Tea

Steuben Deanery, Diocesan Council of Catholic Women heard talks by the Rev. John L. Coonan of Rochester, the Rev. Robert C. MacNamara of Pittsford and the Rev. Leo A. Mans of Hornell at a Catholic Book Week tea last Sunday at St. Ann School.

Father Coonan, former assistant pastor of St. Ann's and first spiritual director of the Stuben Deanery, reviewed "Ambassador in Chains" by Bishop Raymond A. Lane, superior-general of the Maryknoll Missioners.

The book tells the story of Bishop Patrick Joseph Byrne, a Maryknoll Missioner who was martyred by North Korean Communists. He was born in Washington, D.C. and spent his early life with an aunt in Auburn. Father Coonan is a native of Auburn, so the early portion of the book held especial interest for him, he told the group.

The book traces Patrick Joseph Byrne's life through his ordination at a Baltimore seminary and his becoming, shortly afterwards, a Maryknoll Missioner. He first was assigned to a mission at Korea where he endeared himself to the people by his warmth and humor.

THE CLIMAX of the book concerns Bishop Byrne's capture and forced march for miles in bitter weather. There were hundreds in the first lap of the march but only 12 persons left when the prison camp destination was reached. Those who dropped from exhustion were shot.

Bishop Byrne's attitude toward his imminent death was expressed in his words, with which Father Coonan concluded his review.

"I am happy. I have prayed always that I might be able to die for my Faith."

Father MacNamara, also a former assistant pastor of St. Ann's Church and spiritual director of the Steuben Deanery, selected Margaret Trouncer's book, "The Nun" for his review.

THE BOOK is a novelized biography of St. Margaret Mary Alacoque who is best known for her dedication to the increase of knowledge and love of the Sacred Heart of Jesus.

St. Margaret Mary lived a life devoid of many simple human consolations. Father MacNamara related. Despite many acts of unkindness from sympathetic relatives her girlhood was strangely happy because of her devotion to her immediate family.

Brief descriptions of better known Catholic magazines and newspapers were given by Father Mans, assistant pastor of St. Ann's.

He displayed sample copies of several magazines and Catholic weekly newspapers, commenting on features peculiar to each.

Books and pamphlets which contain matter in accordance with Catholic teachings bear the words "nihil obstat," Father Mans explained. In conclusion he summarized the importance of good Catholic literature for self-knowledge and for diffusing information regarding the Church.

THE SPEAKERS were introduced by the Rev. Richard A. Hart, spiritual director of the Steuben Deanery.

Before the talks, the women had an opportunity to inspect new books in the Catholic Reading club library and sample copies which they were given the opportunity to order.

Mrs. Humbert Solo was general chairman.

Mrs. Rose Cannuli Honored For Service To USO

Geneva — Mrs. Rose Cannuli was honored at a dinner and party at the Geneva Lions Club for her work at the USO. "Mom" Cannuli, as she was known to the GI's, received a plaque from the Lions Club.

It was inscribed "Meritorious award to Mrs. Rose Cannuli for unselfish devotion to all servicemen."

Gordon Edgley, USO director, Mayor W. Erie Rogers and Michael G. Michaels, toastmaster paid tributes to her devotion and activities in behalf of servicemen.

Edgley, pointing out that the USO would be unable to operate without its volunteer workers, said Mrs. Cannuli did an outstanding job.

Mayor Rogers emphasized that what Mrs. Cannuli has done for the servicemen can't be measured by dollars and cents. He read a poem, written by his brother, the late A. Glenn Rogers, entitled "A Friend," and dedicated it to her.

Michaels read an original poem dedicated to Mrs. Cannuli and added that the activities reflected a great deal of credit upon the community.

Lions President Samuel Van Kirk presided at the meeting.

'Benefits Due Students' Holy Name Union Told

All American children should receive health and welfare benefit, irrespective of the school they attend, the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Charles V. Boyle, diocesan superintendent of schools, told delegates to the Rochester Deanery Holy Name Union winter meeting at St. Michael Church Hall, Sunday

Monsignor Boyle spoke at sessions at which officers of the deanery were elected Arthur F Ennis was named to succeed Frank J. Lange as president. Lange presided.

"No future American citizen should be penalized because his parents exercise their constitutional right to patronize the school of their choice," Monsignor Boyle said

"IN THE NAME of democracy there are those who would reduce the traditional American pattern of education to the monolithic, all-embracing, state-dictated system such as existed in Nazi Germany under Hitler and exists in Russia today

"No thinking American wants a single-party government; by the same token no thinking American wants a single school system," the superintendent of schools said.

"Unity, not uniformity is the American ideal," he declared. "Is it divisive to be a Democrat, a Republican, a Rotarian or a member of the Elks? Some people who pride themselves on being liberal in everything else are most illiberal when it comes to education.

"It is true Catholic schools cost much — in money, in the life-blood of its teachers, in sacrifice but it is worth all this and more for it means the fashioning of human minds and the shaping of human hearts after the mind and heart of Jesus Christ."

THE MEETING OPENED with Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament in St. Michael Church with the Very Rev. Msgr Joseph E. Vogt, pastor of Holy Redeemer Church officiating. Assisting were the Rev. Paul R. Schnacky and the Rev. John J. Philipps. Also attending were the Very Rev. Msgr. Patrick J. Flynn, diocesan director of Holy Name Societies and the Rev. Arthur F Florack, assistant director and pastor of St. Michael Church.

At the business session, two resolutions were adopted. One commended local businesses for observance of Good Friday. The other established an annual Mass to be offered at Holy Redeemer Church for the late Rt. Rev. Msgr. F. William Stauder, pastor until his death a few years ago and founder of the Rochester Diocesan Holy Name Union. Time of the Mass was not set.

Elected with President Ennis were: John W. Degus, vice president; Sam LiPani, treasurer and George Tunney, secretary.
