Waldert Opticians Open New Rochester Branch

Waldert Opticians, of 56 East Ave., will open a new Rochester branch at 1380 Mt. Hope Ave. on Monday, March 12. The new brick structure was designed by Martin, McGraw & Wiard, architects. It will be completely modern in decor and appointments and will feature such innovations in optical dispensing as a fashion center spotlighting eyewear trends for men and women; a children's corner complete with huge spectacled clown.

Scientific lighting and modern appointments, designed exclusively for Waldert's, complement the interior created by John Mentlian, Rochester artist. There will be blacktop parking facilities for 25 cars.

THE WALDERT firm was founded in 1913 by William L. Waldert who is still active in the business.

To quote Leo Waldert, son of the founder, "Eyewear must be fashionable as well as functional. Scientific accuracy in lenses and fashion in frames have combined to make today's eyewear a most important fashion accessory, to say nothing of its priceless value to health. We are even featuring frames of famous designers from all over the world."

Waldert's Mt. Hope Avenue branch will be staffed by William Day, Maurice Crevier and Dianne D'Amico. Peter J. Michales will be in charge. Officers of Waldert Opticians include Leo Waldert, president; Edwin R. Williamson, vice president; Eugene Austing, secretary. The public is invited to the opening.

Greece Builders

through paid subscribers has made the Catholic Courier Journal the largest weekly newspaper in the State of New York, excepting Manhattan. To this is added a reader loyalty such as is enjoyed by every Catholic newspaper in the United States. All of them are published on a "local level," intimately associated with resident Catholic families in the trade areas (diocesan) represented by the publications.

Catholic families are the dominant new home buyers in the City of Rochester and its environs. They are important to every man or woman engaged in the sale of real estate and the building of new homes. It is only natural to assume that, as a majority group, they appreciate being so recognized through advertising messages appearing in their own newspaper.

THERE IS NO GREATER ASSURANCE OF CORDIAL GOOD WILL, FAIR DEALING AND FULLEST COOPERATION THAN IN REPLYING TO AN ADVERTISEMENT IN THE CATHOLIC COURER JOURNAL.

Builders and developers in every section of the City of Rochester and its environs are gaining the knowledge that the Catholic Home Buying Market is strong enough to be actively solicited through its own Catholic Press IN CONJUNCTION WITH the Sunday newspaper . . . for complete coverage of week-end homeseekers, with that added PLUS in emphasis to the Catholic Market.

Beauty and Practicality for Small Space Homes

Practicality and storage convenience for small space living is emphasized in these new pieces. One of the pieces is a china cabinet for smaller dining areas. The base has a storage area for linens, glassware and china. In the hutch is a conventional drawer, cabinet and display case for silver. This open stock line is available in neutro-oak, summerian, mahogany and patina walnut finishes.

MORE HOME REPAIR ACTIVITY FORESEEN

The current year will be a banner one for home repair, remodeling and modernization, George E. Wilson, Chairman, Home Show Committee, of the Rochester Home Builders' Association, predicted.

"Families planning to improve their homes, either through remodeling, repair and maintenance, or the purchase of new equipment, will find scores of ideas at the Spring Home Festival, opening tomorrow at the War Memorial from March 10-17."

Mr. Wilson said, "Here is a perfect opportunity to make your final selections and plans."

Sparked by Operation Home Improvement, the dollar volume of home improvement by owner-occupants in 1956 may reach as high as $10 billion, according to the estimates of some building authorities. The National Association of Home Builders, with which the Rochester Home Builders' Association is affiliated, is one of the sponsors of OHI which has mapped out a nationwide, year-long campaign designed to better American housing.

New Millinery Shop Opens

Formal opening of a new millinery shop on East Avenue's fashion row, took place March 7. The new shop is owned and operated by Jerome M. Kipling, Kipling, for 20 years, was B. Forman Co. millinery buyer.

Entirely redesigned with a modern salon interior, the store is done in light pink with blond wood trim and fixtures and overhead lighting. Display windows which permit passersby to look into the store provide for maximum showing of fashions.

Student Named To Dean's List

Miss Mary Louise Haidle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerhard C. Haidle of 300 Webster Road, was recently named to the dean's list at Saint Joseph College, Emmitsburg, Maryland.

Mary Louise, a sophomore, is taking courses which will lead to a bachelor of arts degree with a major in chemistry. She served as class vice-president in her freshman year, has been active in Dramatic Club for two years, and is a member of Blessed Clet Mission Unit Board.
