Industry Director Speaks In Geneva

Geneva—How the New York State School at Industry operates was explained by John B. Costello, director to a large number of members of the Holy Name Society of St. Francis de Sales Church, March 25th.

Costello was the guest speaker at the annual Communion breakfast held in the school hall following 7 a. m. Mass in the church. More than 300 members received Holy Communion. 200 were present for the breakfast. The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Edward K. Ball, V.F., society moderator commended the turnout, James Ninestine, president welcomed the members.

Some of the boys are of the rowdy type, some are from broken homes, and some have committed crimes, but a boy under 16 years of age is not classed as having been guilty of crime, unless of murder.

Costello had high praise for the work of the chaplains. Protestant, Catholic and Jewish for "the very fine work" they were doing at the school. "What these chaplains do for the staff of workers and for the boys is of immeasurable value," he emphasized. Many of the boys who have been at Industry turn out later to be fine citizens. They often hold responsible positions and are grateful for what the school has done for them, Costello declared.
