Requiem Mass Offered For Redemptorist Priest

assignment to Rochester in 1948. In his sermon following the funeral Mass, Father Ranehan described the deceased missionary as a man of great simplicity of soul.

"Christ, in His sermon on the Mount preached simplicity, and Father Trageser was a simple priest in the full sense of the word," said Father Ranehan. "We might say he didn't grow up but he grew down in humility."

"On last Saturday morning when death claimed him instead of going to the altar to gaze upon the Eucharistic Body and precious Blood of Christ he looked into the very Face of his God."

"Although 73 years of age he was still very young at heart and his great delight was to be with the young. It is rare to meet such a man who was so joyful and loved to laugh, but in his true simplicity, Father Trageser was just that man. When one meets such a man he is face to face with the ideal of Christ," the speaker said.

He is survived by a brother John and a sister, Mrs. John Keene, both of Baltimore Md., and several nieces and nephews.

Officers at the funeral Mass were the following: Chaplains to Bishop Kearney: the Rt. Rev. Monsignor Francis J. Hoey and Charles V. Boyle; Chaplains to Bishop McManus: the Very Rev. James R. Barnett, S.J., and Rev. William J. O'Brien.

Irish Primate Opens New Hospital For St. Louis Children

St. Louis, Mo. — (RNS) — Cardinal D'Alton, Archbishop of Armagh and Primate of All-Ireland, dedicated a $6,200,000 children's hospital here.

The institution is a memorial to the late Cardinal John Glennon, Irish-born Archbishop of St. Louis, who died ten years ago. It is the first general hospital for children to be built under a Catholic auspices in the United States.

Funds for its construction came from Catholics and Jews as well as Protestants.

Church and civic dignitaries joined thousands of Catholics at the dedication ceremonies during which the Irish Primate recalled Cardinal Glennon's 33 years as head of the St. Louis See and described him as "a shining ornament of the Church in America."

The Irish Cardinal was officially welcomed by Mayor Raymond R. Tucker as the city's "guest of honor." The mayor hailed the new hospital as "adequate proof of the Catholic Church's confidence in the future of St. Louis which has long been recognized as an outstanding medical center of the world."

Indult For U.S.

New St. Joseph Mass Permitted On Labor Day

Washington—(NC)—The Holy See has granted an indult permitting the new Mass appointed to be said on the Feast of St. Joseph the Worker to be used in the United States on the first Monday of September, Labor Day.

The Mass for the Feast of St. Joseph the Worker is generally appointed to be said on May First, or May Day. However, at their annual general meeting last November, the American archbishops and bishops voted unanimously to ask the Vatican to permit the Mass to be used in the United States and its territories on Labor Day.

In their petition, the bishops pointed out that, in this it has in other countries. For years, they also noted, traditionally and by governmental proclamation in the United States, the day dedicated to the recognition of the working people has been the first Monday of September.

Catholic School Only One Integrated In S. Carolina

New York — (NC) — The only school children in South Carolina "living in harmony with the Supreme Court of the United States are the 46 whites and 10 Negroes" who attend St. Anne's parochial school in Rock Hill, S. C.

THIS OBSERVATION was made by Murray Kempton, columnist for The New York Post, after a survey of conditions in South Carolina. Mr. Kempton reported the 56 are primary school pupils, since St. Anne's stops at the sixth grade, but that next year they will move to a new $55,000 school built from funds donated by white Southerners.

Father Maurice Shean, C. O., superior of the Congregation of the Oratory of St. Philip Neri, which has charge of the parish, explained that the school was integrated in September, 1954. There has been virtually no trouble over the integration.

FATHER SHEAN said when the school took in Negroes there were a few threats of secession, but only one family withdrew its children.

Father Shean received one complaint from a "next door neighbor" the columnist related, about white and Negro children playing together. Father Shean watched the children for a while then called back and said that "if the children didn't feel like complaining, he didn't see how he could," the columnist wrote.

"You can no longer call St. Anne's an experiment, its children were never told that they were part of an experiment their school life is simply the natural order of things."
