French Towns Tell Hours of Mass

Paris — (NC) — An increasing number of areas are publishing maps or directories telling where churches in the area are located and at what hours Masses and other services are held.

The Quimper and Paimiers dioceses have published maps locating all churches and the hours for services. The city of Nantes has also made a map of churches in its environs.

Noted Jesuit, Fr. LaFarge To Appear On Catholic Hour

Washington — (NC) — Father John LaFarge, S.J., who has had a strong impact on inter-racial work, on the liturgical movement and on Catholic journalism in this country, will be the first of four guests to appear on the Catholic Hour on TV August programs.

The Jesuit priest will be seen on the August 5 broadcast over the NBC-TV network from 4 to 4:30 p.m. EDT. The National Council of Catholic Men, producers of the program, announced his appearance marks the beginning of a series on the program entitled "Close Ups," consisting of conversations with four leading Catholic personalities in public affairs, the arts and literature.

Father LaFarge formerly was editor-in-chief of America, a weekly review edited by a group of Jesuit Fathers, and was one of the founders of the Catholic Interracial Council in New York City.

He will be interviewed by Judge Harold Steevens, the first Negro on the New York Supreme Court and a long-time associate of Father LaFarge in inter-racial work.

FATHER LAFARGE, who has been a priest for 50 years, published his autobiography, "The Manner is Ordinary," in 1954. His other works include "The Jesuits in Modern Times," "Interracial Justice," and "The Race Question and the Negro."

The three other guests to be seen on successive Sundays in August are Father Philip Hughes, English historian, whose three-volume "History of the Church" is generally acclaimed as the definitive history of the Church by a contemporary author; Andre Girard, a French artist whose work has made him a significant figure in contemporary art; and Paul Horgan, educator and prize-winning novelist who won the Pulitzer award for "The Great River," his historical study of the Rio Grande.

Suggestions For Reading

By Mary Lennon Snyder

My summer reading has resulted in my collecting some ideas which I am passing along in the hope that they will be helpful in planning next season's work. Most of these are found in the August-September issue of the N.C.C.W. Monthly Messenger.

The National Chairman of the Committee for Libraries and Literature suggests that we drive a few blocks out of our way to take our children to the library for getting good books is as important as getting groceries. She goes on to say:

"This will help to convince him of the importance of reading good books. Suggest books that fit in with the child's current interest. Storytelling is one of the most dramatic ways to present books to children. In this recording can be used to good advantage. Select very carefully the recordings; today there are many worthwhile records on the market.

"YOU CAN NOT relax your vigilance for one second; the objectionable pocket-books and magazines are still on the neighborhood newsstand and magazine rack. This phase of our program is of the utmost importance and needs the support of every citizen.

"Someone has said that modern advertising is designed to make people want things they don't need and could get along better without. Our aim is to create a desire for something needed. Publicity is not an end in itself but a means to a goal. Our goal is to reach more persons with the truth of Christ's teaching, through Catholic Literature."

Another area where there is a growing need for our attention is with the aging. The national chairman of the Committee on Cooperating with Catholic Charities suggests that more emphasis be put on parish programs for older persons and lists the following ideas:

"Tea for grandmothers and great-grandmothers. Don't specify any certain age, or you will have no one there. No woman will admit she is over 50.

"Discover the interests of this group and get them to help you plan a project for them; perhaps a get-together with someone from the Safety Department of the local community would speak on traffic hazards, accidents in the home, etc., with the local point on older people; or some nutritional talk on good food habits for older people.

"Explore the possibility of having a small corner of your parish meeting hall, library, church basement, or whatever you may have, turned over for use by your Senior Citizens one or two days a week. Some place where they can get together to talk, play cards, have a cup of coffee. This might take a few hours of your parish chairman's time in the beginning, but you will see that these folks can eventually carry on for themselves."

The National chairman of the Committee on Spiritual Development points out that we should "plan practical ways to carry out the Spiritual Works of Mercy. For example: appoint a telephone committee to alert members when the rosary is to be prayed for a deceased member of the parish; suggest giving of Spiritual Bouquets to sick members or those moving from the parish; have Mass celebrated for deceased members; support the work of missions; through prayer and money collections; send wanted religious articles for use by missions; urge participation in catechetical instruction where in wide use; others are less familiar. We pass them on as ways in which we can show our love for God by assisting our fellow creatures either materially or physically.
