Annunciation Parish Plans Building Drive

Erection of a new church and school building for Annunciation Parish, Norton and Goodman streets, Rochester will be the aim of a fund campaign to be conducted next month. It was announced today by the Rev. Albert L. Simonetti, pastor.

Parish wide collection is scheduled during a two-hour period on Sunday, September 23. Three-year pledges will be sought by a committee of 400 men now being organized.

Rapid growth of parish population during the last few years, particularly the increase in school-age children, necessitates expansion. Father Simonetti declared.

NEED FOR a parish school is evidenced, he said, from the fact that there are 732 Catholic children in the parish of grammar school age. They receive catechetical instruction from the pastor from the Rev. Joseph Nothnagle, assistant pastor, and from Sister Helen Marie, a Trinitarian Sister who also assists in parish census work.

The small frame church building, the pastor continued, is overcrowded at seven Sunday Masses. New parish buildings, he said, will be constructed on the 2-acre parish property on Norton St. opposite the present church and rectory.

Annunciation Church was first established as a mission of St. Francis Church, in 1917. In 1938 it became a mission of Mt. Carmel Church. His Excellency Bishop Kearney established it as a parish in 1946, with the late Rev. Francis Crastinielli as first pastor. He was succeeded by Father Simonetti in 1953.

Father Simonetti announced that the church-school drive committee will be headed by Matthew Celehar and Stephen DeLuca. Assisting in conduct of the campaign is Foley Associates Inc., a Rochester fund-raising organization.

Congress Lists Dr. Arnett

Dr. Ross H. Arnett, head of the department of biology at St. John Fisher College, will deliver a scientific paper on the occasion of the tenth International Congress of Entomology at the University of Montreal on Wednesday, Aug. 22 at 9 p.m.

This Congress will be held in Montreal, Canada, Aug. 17-25. It is the first time since 1932 that it has been held in North America.

Dr. Arnett will illustrate his talk with slides. His slides will consist of maps which he has drawn and photographed with color film using a device which he has developed.

From Aug. 26 to 30, Dr. Arnett will attend the national meeting of the American Institute of Biological Sciences at the University of Connecticut at Storrs, Conn. Biologists from all over the United States will attend this meeting. Dr. Arnett is a co-sponsor of the Society of Systematic Zoology.

Music Building — A $250,000 extension to the music building at the Catholic University of America here was dedicated formally by Bishop Bryan J. McElreath, university rector.

Diocese School Head Lauds Timely Civics Club Theme

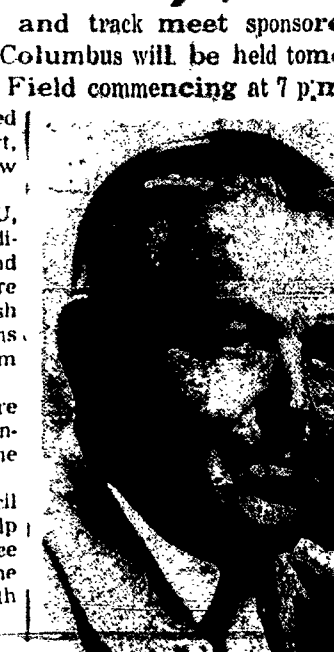

Selection of a timely theme for study by the Catholic Civics Clubs of America this year was pointed up as a pressing reason for formation of units in every Catholic school in this area in a letter sent to parochial school principals this week by Rt. Rev. Msgr. Charles Boyle, Rochester, Diocesan Superintendent of Schools.

In Catholic Civics Clubs, sponsored by the Commission on American Citizenship of the Catholic University of America, boys and girls in the upper elementary grades of parochial schools all over the United States and its possessions this year will participate in community projects, and learn about civics in action as they study the operation of their local governments.

IN HIS LETTER Monsignor Boyle described the 1956-57 theme of study for the Clubs — "The Young Government" — as "an aid filling the growing need for Christian men and women to participate actively in local and national government. . . . In this presidential election year, the Clubs' program should prove especially timely, appealing, and valuable."

To encourage formation of clubs, Monsignor Boyle also pointed to the availability of help in the form of regular articles in the YOUNG CATHOLIC MESSENGER, current affairs weekly that acts as an intermediary between the Commission and the Clubs in developing the theme. Through this series of articles prepared under the Commission's supervision, Clubs are supplied with background information. . . . Ideas for study. . . . and project material.

Special articles developing this year's theme, "Is Your Government?" will encourage clubs to get out the vote. . . . to study the community governing body. . . . to learn what the executive departments of local government do. . . . to appreciate how the legislative works. . . . to observe how an independent governmental agency does. . . . to understand how local courts function. . . . Supplementary material will also be available in TREASURE CHEST, the Catholic picture
