MASS AT THE SHRINE AT NOON

AMONG WOMEN
Pioneer Of Catholic Action

By Mary Lannon Snyder

Recently in our parish church prayers to St. Anthony Mary Claret were distributed, and in the ensuing days several friends mentioned to me 'the new saint'. By a series of circumstances St. Anthony Mary Claret is not a new saint to me as within the past year I had read two accounts of his life.

Someone has remarked that the saints have often suffered at the hands of their friends, in that these friends and admirers often write very boring biographies of the holy person. This surely is the case of the two lives of St. Anthony Mary which I read.

The saint was a most remarkable man who lived a very holy, exciting, sacrificial, wonderful life in Nineteenth Century Spain and Cuba. The presentation of this life, although dated Feb. 8, 1851 was made in the literary style and hagiographical techniques of the period in which St. Anthony Mary lived.

PERHAPS the author stayed too close to his source material. Whatever the cause, the rhapsodic approach to the saint's life would cause the casually interested reader to lay down the book.

However, since St. Anthony Mary Claret had become known to me as a patron saint of those suffering from cancer, and since we were praying to him for the happy death or recovery of a dear relative, I waded through the exclamation sentences and rhetorical questions.

Subsequently in correspondence with the Congregation of the Missionary Sons of the Immaculate Heart of Mary, I learned that I had been mistaken. Actually St. Anthony Mary Claret is not the patron saint of those afflicted with cancer, although his aid is invoked for those suffering from the malady and there is an approved prayer which may be said.

ST. ANTHONY MARY was born in 1807 in the northern part of Spain. His parents were simple ordinary people. Despite his practical father, unable to bear the expense of study, sent him to learn the weaver's trade.

wards of the old type, whose first care in the education of their children was directed to piety and to goodness of heart. The sacred name of Jesus and Mary were the first words they taught their infant lips to stammer." I quote to illustrate the style which I previously mentioned.

St. Anthony Mary was the fifth of eleven children, a factor which determined his subsequent education and training. Although the future saint wished to study Latin, perhaps with an inner impulse to the priesthood, this took him to Barcelona where as a lad in his teens he faced the temptations of a great city.

He was in his twenties when in 1829 he began his preparatory studies for the priesthood. As a priest he was a celebrated missionary throughout Spain, the Canary Islands, and Cuba and in 1850 was named Archbishop of Cuba. In 1857 he was recalled to Spain where he acted as confessor for Queen Isabella II.

IN THIS LATTER position he was not blinded by the high honors or esteem bestowed on him by the Court but was ever ready to point out to the Queen where she had faltered as a Queen and a Catholic.

Present also at the Vatican Council in 1869, Anthony Mary was a "most indefatigable champion of papal infallibility. He died in 1870 and on May 7, 1950 he was canonized.

So in point of time we might refer to him as a "new saint" but in many parts of the world, particularly the Spanish speaking parts, St. Anthony Mary Claret has long been known and loved as "a tireless Apostle and a great Organizer" particularly in the field of Catholic Action where he is recognized as a pioneer.
