

Catholic Information Series Set In Penn Yan

Penn Yan—Everyone interested in knowing more about what Catholics believe and why they so believe is invited to attend a series of 26 informative talks on Monday and Friday evenings at 8 o'clock, beginning Friday, Sept. 28.

The talks will be given in St. Michael's School and will last 45 minutes. Fifteen minutes at the conclusion of each talk will be reserved for questions from the inquirers.

These talks are intended for both non-Catholics and members of the Catholic Church.

ABSOLUTELY NO cost is involved for anyone. There is no admission fee; and the literature to supplement the talk is offered free of charge, it is announced at the church.

The topics discussed on Friday nights of the Fall series will be treated on Monday nights during the winter series. By this arrangement persons who can attend only once a week may follow the whole series by coming on the same evening of the week during the two successive series.

The series this Fall will be under the direction of Rev. Robert McFiggins, assistant pastor of St. Michael's.

Accountants To Meet
Rochester Chapter, National Association of Cost Accountants will hold a Board of Directors meeting at 12 noon, Chamber of Commerce, Monday, Sept. 24.

Needs Of Foster Children Explained By Priest Expert In Lecture Here

By PAUL CONTESTABLE

"Foster homes and institutions each have their place in the rearing of the foster child," a noted priest expert in the field of social welfare told Monroe County Welfare workers at their annual institute held this week.

The Rev. Swithun Bowers, O.M.I., director of the School of Social Welfare at St. Patrick College, Ottawa, Ont., speaking on the needs of the foster child, told the group that generally "any foster home is better than an institution."

Highlighting the advantages of both institutions and foster homes, the visiting priest said that children under five or six years of age should not be placed in an institution.

INSTITUTIONS DO have their advantages however, he stated. "One of the first things," he continued, "is that the institution does not demand such concentrated attention. Children at a particular stage cannot deal with intimate and concentrated emotional relationships offered in a foster home."

Father Bowers added that the institution should be temporary or the child may become socially inadequate. He also expressed a firm belief that the institutions should have their own foster home service.

Describing the advantages of an institution, the priest remarked that a child in an institution has less difficulty in facing or withdrawing from problems than he would in a foster home.

Also, the institution can provide a transitional stage which the foster homes cannot offer.

THE GUEST lecturer also urged the case workers not to lose sight of their goal—to return the child to his natural community.

A follow-up discussion on Father Bowers' lecture is scheduled by the case workers at the Welfare Department this morning.

SOCIAL WORKERS of Monroe County heard the Rev. Swithun Bowers, O.M.I., noted expert in the field of sociology, at their annual institute conducted this week at the County Welfare Department. Father Bowers spoke on the needs of the foster child. Shown with Father Bowers is Miss Beatrice E. Goughan, general case supervisor.

Immaculate Conception Class Holds Reunion

Forty-two members of the 1936 graduating class of Immaculate Conception School, Rochester attended the 20th anniversary reunion held at the Liederkrantz Club on Sept. 15.

Local Religious Items Being Used In Formosa

Rosaries, holy-pictures and religious statues from Catholics of the Rochester Diocese "are being welcomed in many, many Formosan homes," according to the Rev. Patrick Veil, Bethlehem Father missioned in Formosa.

Father Veil, brother of Michael Veil, Vayo St., Rochester, visited here last February and appealed through the Catholic Courier Journal for all types of religious articles for the natives of Formosa.

AREA CATHOLICS answered the missionary's plea and when Father Veil left for his assignment in March he took several cartons of religious articles supplied by people of the Rochester Diocese.

The missionary also reported this week having his first "snake dinner" in Formosa. "Friends brought it in a basket still living, the head tied to the body," he writes. "It was a giant snake and they prepared it like chicken."

A missionary in Manchuria for 20 years, Father Veil spent 3 years under house arrest by the communists. He was repeatedly tortured and finally condemned to death.

Some of the missionaries use motorcycles, Father Veil reports, "but if something goes wrong with the motor you are in serious difficulty there are no garages except in the cities."

Automobiles are rarely seen in his area of Formosa, according to the Bethlehem Father, who drives a three-gear bicycle in his mission work.

Miss O'Harrigan says that this year's Convention Day program will not only show how the Catholic women of the Diocese have contributed to vital family and community living through the programs of the Council's eight-committee system but it will also commemorate the founding of the Rochester DCCW twenty-five years ago in April, 1931.

The theme of this year's Convention is "Fostering Vital Catholic Life." Mrs. Lynn French, president of the Monroe County Council, DCCW, is co-chairman of the Convention.

Convention Planned For DCCW

Plans are being completed for the 22nd Annual Diocesan Convention of the Rochester Diocesan Council of Catholic Women. Miss Helen O'Harrigan, Convention Chairman, announces that the Convention will be held on Tuesday, Oct. 2, at the Rochester Chamber of Commerce.

Women from all over the Diocese of Rochester have been invited to attend.
