Annual Clinic Day Held At St. Mary Hospital, New Equipment Demonstrated

Highlight of the program of scientific presentations at the third annual Clinic Day of St. Mary Hospital, yesterday, Oct. 25 was a demonstration of the newly acquired equipment of the Cardio-Pulmonary Laboratory set up at the hospital.

The laboratory, a reality through the generosity of Rochester philanthropies, is for diagnosis of diseases of the heart and blood vessels.

The Clinic Day was a post-graduate teaching day held for the attending staff of St. Mary's and physicians who took training at St. Mary's but are now practicing in other areas.

A DINNER at the Sheraton Hotel at which Doctor Hugh H. Hussey, professor of medicine at Georgetown University Medical School spoke, followed the scientific program. Wives of the physicians attended.

The Cardio-Pulmonary Laboratory demonstrated will enable St. Mary's staff to carry out diagnostic tests which ordinarily are available only in the large medical centers. In this way, it was stated at the demonstration, it should be possible to effect cures of many conditions which previously have gone undiagnosed in the early and most curable stages.

This unusual testing station was developed as an outgrowth of the educational program at St. Mary's of which Dr. John Butler is director. Many of the tests utilized in this laboratory were developed in research centers where the applicability of basic science to the ill person is explored and diagnostic tools evolved.

When the methods have been perfected in the research laboratory they are then made available on a limited scale to the hospital patient, it was explained.

St. Mary's has embarked on a program to develop facilities which will provide its patients with those tests which have been found most useful in research centers. Through a carefully planned long-range program, the hospital has arranged for the training of various staff members in the performance of these intricate tests, the doctors were told.

DONORS OF the present Cardio-Pulmonary Laboratory were revealed as follows: the flouroscope was purchased with funds donated to the Montgomery E. Leary Fund in memory of the late Dr. Montgomery Leary. The rest of the equipment for the laboratory and a Peripheral Vascular Laboratory were purchased with a gift of $7,000 from the Gannett Foundation.

Because of the great expense involved in equipping such projects, philanthropy is depended upon for financial support. Benefits of such projects are realized by the community in the form of better medical care, it was explained.

The dinner program included a welcome by Dr. Joseph Lane; address by Dr. Hussey with Dr. John H. Remington, master of ceremonies and Dr. Edward J. Schnorr, chairman.

In the morning session held in the hospital auditorium, Dr. Butler made opening remarks and in the new laboratory panel discussion, Doctors Carl Impellitier, John McCabe and Charles Mathews, took part.

Students Sign Up As Little Missionaries

Approximately 800 students were received into the Pontifical Association of the Holy Childhood last Friday, Mission Day at Holy Cross School.

The reception ceremony was conducted by Rev. Robert H. Fennessy, pastor, in the school auditorium. The key note of Father Fennessy's talk to the little missionaries was "You are my hands". The work of saving souls is too great a task for our Holy Father alone so he turns to his missionaries—big and small—and says "You are my hands".

Those little missionaries with their prayers and sacrifices can do much toward lightening the burden of our Holy Father in his work of saving souls. Father Fennessy said each child received a prayer card, a beautiful certificate of membership, and a Holy Childhood medal.

The children say "This is only the beginning. Next year we want it bigger and better. We want more posters telling us of the work of the home and foreign missions. We want stories of their bravery and daily hardships. We want to know more about Missionary priests and sisters."

"It is the hope and prayer of your priests and sisters that each class will ransom many a pagan baby during the coming year. You have so much—they have so little!! Pray for them! Sacrifice for them!", the pastor told the children.

St. Paul, Minn. — (NC) — Mrs. I. A. O'Shaughnessy, wife of a St. Paul financier-philanthropist, has announced that she will sponsor the construction of a building for the Home of the Good Shepherd here, an institution for maladjusted girls.

It will be used as living quarters by girls who have completed the training courses at the institution, but for whom no suitable home or opportunity for guidance is available. They may work in St. Paul and live in the new building expected to be ready next spring.

The building was the dream of Mother Mary of St. Francis Xavier, mother emeritus of the St. Paul province of the Sisters of the Good Shepherd of Angers, who at 95, marked her 75th year as a Sister recently.

Duquesne Students Urged To Vote

Pittsburgh — (NC) — Leaders of the Duquesne University student body here have been urged by their university president to persuade eligible students to vote.

Holy Ghost Father Vernon F. Gallagher, Duquesne president, held a conference with 350 student leaders during which he expressed his concern for the apparent apathy of college students to exercise their right to vote.

"If college students demonstrate such indifference to the process of free government, what must be the apathy and confusion in the minds of those millions who do not enjoy the advantages of higher education," he told the group.

Polish Clergy Asks Cardinal's Release

Vienna —(NC)— The release of Cardinal Wyszynski, Primate of Poland, has been demanded by 360 priests of the Gorzow area of Poland in a letter to Polish Premier Josef SCyrankiewicz, it was learned here.

The priests reminded the Polish government of the trrditional loyalty of the Polish clergy to the Polish nation and of the part played by priests in the long struggle for independence.

"Today the Polish nation wants religious freedom in the full sense of the word," the letter stated. "As a real proof of such freedom, our people want to see the Primate of Poland, Cardinal Wyszynski, carrying out his duties without any interference on the part of the secular authorities."

Two Bishops Said Released By Czech Reds

Vienna — (NC) — Communist Czechoslovikia's Radio Prague announced that two bishops who have been imprisoned for the past five years have been released.

It said that Bishop John Vojtassak of Spis and Auxiliary Bishop Michael Buzalka of the Apostolic Adminsitration of Trnava had been permitted to go to the Caritas rest home in Slovakia.

Charged with treason and espionage, the Slovak bishops were arrainged and sentenced in 1951. Bishop Vojtassak was sentenced to a 24-year jail term, while Bishop Buzalka was given a life sentence.

While their releases were not verifiable here, the Red radio report was generally accepted at value, inasmuch as Bishop Vojtassak is now almost 79 and Bishop Buzalka is 71 and both prelates are understood to be in poor health. The view here was that further imprisonment would only serve to embarrass Czechoslovak officials, and that the Reds know this well.
