Dance To Conclude Youth Week Ceremonies

Corning — Scores of Corning area Catholic young men and women participated in the National Catholic Youth Week program which opened last Sunday and will conclude Sunday with a Catholic teen-agers dance at the Baron Steuben Hotel from 8 to 11 p.m.

They received Communion in their own parish churches last Sunday morning, including the 7:30 Mass at St. Vincent de Paul Church at which the Rev. Joseph Hogan, chaplain of Notre Dame High School in Elmira spoke.

Father Hogan discussed in his sermon "Teen-Age Responsibility in School."

Last Monday evening at St. Mary Church, the Rev. Bartholomew O'Brien spoke on "Teen-Age Responsibility in Recreation." Tuesday evening St. Patrick Church, the Rev. Joseph McNamara of Elmira spoke on "Teen-Age Responsibility in the Home."

This coming Sunday morning, all of the Catholic young men and women of the four parishes will attend Mass and receive Holy Communion at the 8:30 a.m. Mass at St. Mary Church. This will be followed by breakfast at the Baron Steuben Hotel, with John D. Krawley, judge of Elmira Recorder's Court, as guest speaker.

Organist Plans Free Program For Public

Porter Heaps of Chicago, one of America's finest organists and teachers, will present "Pointers for the Home Organist," an informal program of music and playing tips, free to the public, in the new Elmira College Theater on Tuesday, Nov. 13, at 8 p.m.

The program is sponsored by the Elmira Area Hammond Organ Society, the Elmira College Music Department, and the M. Doyle Marks & Son music store; and all organists, pianists, and other interested persons will be welcome.

Heaps has planned the "Pointers" program primarily for amateur musicians and people who simply like organ music. He will demonstrate and discuss such matters as planning registrations, playing techniques, special effects, arranging popular music, and others appealing to those who play for fun and relaxation.

Free tickets may be obtained by visiting M. Doyle Marks & Son, 305 E. Water St., Elmira, a self-addressed, stamped envelope with the request for tickets.

YOUTH WEEK observance in Hornell opening with Holy Mass at St. Ann Church. At a breakfast in the American Legion Home these Catholic high school students attended: (from left) Nora Shibley, Eugene Burns, James Patti, prefect of the Boys' Sodality and toastmaster; Robert Grausgruber and Mary Frisco.

Hornell Students Usher In Youth Week Services

Hornell—Catholic high school students from Hornell and vicinity ushered in Catholic Youth Week Sunday by participating in a full day's activities.

They filled the center aisles of St. Ann Church for the 8 a.m. Mass at which they received Holy Communion in honor of Christ the King and the Blessed Virgin Mary, model of all youth.

Approximately 150 of the students then attended a Communion breakfast at the American Legion Home, James Patti, prefect of the Boys' Sodality, was toastmaster.

service to God also means service to country."

Sunday evening the students attended a Holy Hour in St. Ann Church which was followed by an informal party in the Fine Room of St. Ann School.

Arrangements for the Communion breakfast were in charge of members of the girls' and boys' sodalities.

The sense of faith is so deep you are completely removed from the everyday world. You realize a feeling of intense holiness, knowing that hundreds of miraculous cures have occurred where you, yourself, are praying...

George M. Hammond, principal of Lincoln School, showed slides of stamps having both religious and patriotic significance.

Among them were several of cathedrals in Europe; Vatican City issues including a delicate pastel of the Blessed Virgin and Child Jesus; and issues commemorating several patron saints.

"Our United States stamps proclaim to the world that we are a God-fearing nation. We have just to note the words, 'In God We Trust' and the cancellation, 'Pray for Peace' to realize that
