A little boy was amazed to learn that his father wasn't going to grow any taller. "You mean," he asked, "that you're not going to grow any more the rest of your life?" "That's right," answered his father. "Well, then," asked the boy, "why do you keep on eating?"

75 Area High School Girls Visit St. Joseph Hospital

About 75 junior and senior girls from area high schools attended a St. Joseph's Hospital School of Nursing open house program, Nov. 12, at the Dunn Memorial Nurses Residence, Elmira.

The program was held to acquaint girls thinking of professional nursing as a career with the nursing procedures.

Attending were students from Elmira, Bath, Auburn, Rochester, Hornell and other communities. Also present were school counselors and parents of students.

THE PROGRAM included a tour of the nurses residence and an exhibit of the hospital equipment such as operating room instruments, dietetic displays and exhibits depicting the care of post-operative patients and care of premature infants.

The freshman nursing class as hostesses for the prospective students and the senior class planned and set up the exhibits.

The junior class presented a pantomime depicting typical events in a nursing student's everyday life. The script was written by Miss Rita Benedict of Elmira.

SISTER ANNE MAURICE, director of nursing, spoke on nursing careers. She outlined the qualifications necessary for entrance into a professional nursing school and cited the benefits derived from a nursing career and the many problems that may be encountered.

Senior high school students were urged to make early application for the September 1957 class.

Refreshments were served during the three-hour program.

Designer Markets Monks Perfume

Dublin — (RNS) — Sybil Connolly, Ireland's leading fashion designer, plans to introduce to Irish patrons early next year a perfume made by Cistercian monks on Caldy Island, off the coast of Wales.

The Irish-born prior of Caldy, the Very Rev. Eugene Boylan, thought up the idea of producing high grade perfume. The monks on Caldy engage in farming but find it doesn't bring in enough revenue.

Father Boylan was a scientist before he became a priest. Under his direction the monks have already produced several perfumes. Miss Connolly is now organizing the monks' new industry on a sound basis. Her first offering will be a perfume provisionally called "Caldy Bouquet." Eventually, she hopes to break into world markets in competition with French perfumes.

The designer is well known in the United States where she has put on several fashion shows. She exports many dress creations to the U.S.

Mrs. Shane's Rites Held In Corning

Corning — The funeral of Mrs. Katherine Shane of Corning RD 1, widow of George L. Shane, was held Tuesday morning of this week with prayers at the A. W. Bellby and Son Funeral Home followed by Mass at St. Patrick's Church. Burial was in St. Mary's Cemetery.

Mrs. Shane died at Corning Hospital Friday, Nov. 9, 1956, following a four week illness.

Mrs. Shane was born in Campbell, the daughter of Edward and Mary Costello of Welch.

Mr. Shane died here in 1947. She had spent her entire lifetime in this vicinity and will be remembered by many as a school teacher in several of the rural schools. Mrs. Shane was a member of St. Patrick's Church and its Stella Maris Society.

Surviving are two sons, Captain George L. Shane of the United States Navy, stationed at Vallejo, Cal. and John Shane of Corning RD 1; three daughters, Mrs. Jacob Henry of Albany, Miss Mary and Miss Katherine Shane both at home; a brother, Edward Welch of Curtis and five grandchildren.

Head of College Dubuque, Iowa — (NC) — Msgr. Dorance V. Foley, rector of St. Patrick's church here, has been appointed president of Loras College. He succeeds the Most Rev. Loras T. Lane, newly-named Bishop of Rockford, Ill.

Educators Address Nuns At Community Conference

Second annual educational conference of the Sisters of Mercy and the Sisters of St. Joseph were held on Tuesday. Sisters of St. Joseph assembled at Nazareth Academy and the Mercy Sisters at Our Lady of Mercy High School.

Sisters of St. Joseph

The Rev. Thomas F. Gavin, S.J., of the Canisius College faculty, sounded a note of hope in the key address delivered at the second annual Educational Conference of the Sisters of St. Joseph at Nazareth Academy on Tuesday.

"We are closer to world peace than at any other time since the Roman Empire," Father said. "We have all the countries of the world pouring money, talents and energies into an effort to bring about peace and to maintain peace. One of the most significant things in the effectiveness of the United Nations in the present outbreak."

Father Gavin maintained, however, that although we are living in an age of scientific progress, educational development and material wealth we are living in fear before a giant genii of our own making, the lack of deep-seated religious conviction.

Educators have the big job of firing students with a desire to share their Catholic religion. "American youngsters," Father believes, "will respond to a request to help others. Properly directed, youth will eagerly react to this major need of enlightenment those who live in darkness."

"THE RECENT outbreak in Hungary," Father added, "demonstrates that the human spirit will never be smothered by bullets. This should be an inspiration to us to share Truth with those who have no certainty, no Mass, no sacraments, no priesthood, with those who do not know why they are here, or where they are going."

In his second talk, "Preparing the Adolescent Girl for Womanhood," Father stressed the necessity of building up confidence in youth by setting up ideals that can be achieved.

"Give them a motive for doing hard things. They want to do the difficult. This satisfies their urge to be important. Extracurricular activities give opportunity for productive creative accomplishments."

Father Gavin also cited the importance of ideal comradeship between parents and children. He said it is important for parents to frequently recreate with their children and to provide social situations where boys and girls can get together under proper circumstances neither stuffy nor too Puritanically restricted.

THE SPEAKER'S advice to teachers was to hold up sound, rational ideals as basis for faith. Do not make religion synonymous with martyrdom. Show them that religion is important in the ordinary everyday occurrences in their lives. Make them feel that God is a real person."

Dr. D. Lincoln Canfield of the University of Rochester spoke on a Modern Approach in Language Instruction. From Linguistic Studies Research Dr. Canfield concluded that language is concerned with human invention, communication with fellowmen, social custom, and practical arts.

"Spoken language is real," said Dr. Canfield; written language is representation. Human invention looks to the future, social customs to the past. Through language we are constantly inventing and changing things."

Mr. Robert McGregor, Associate in Science Education, and Miss Helen Whitaker of Social Studies division spoke on current trends in their respective fields in the State Education Department. Their talks covered curriculum development, rating of examination papers with specific reference to accuracy of statement, definite answers and basic kits, bibliographies, slides, film concepts; and department aids: roundups and planning guides.

"SOCIAL AND economic values have shaken the framework of family life," stated Miss Margaret Kenney, principal of Public School No. 4. Often mothers and fathers have full time jobs outside the home; formerly raising a family was a full-time job.

Sisters of Mercy

More than 300 Sisters of Mercy convened at Our Lady of Mercy High School Tuesday, November 13 for the 2nd Annual Community Institute. Rt. Rev. Msgr. Charles V. Boyle, Superintendent of Schools, opened the session with the holy Sacrifice of the Mass. Following the Mass, diplomas were awarded to the six Sister Graduates of the Catherine McAuley Junior College.

Rev. Alphonse Malone, C.S.B., professor of Educational Psychology at St. John Fisher College and the U. of R., gave the keynote. Father Richard Torney, and Catherine McAuley. On the afternoon program, Rev. Martin Marnon, English professor at Little Seminary in Buffalo, addressed the entire group on the Art of Oral Expression.

Secondary school teachers attended a sectional meeting in the library presided over by Father Malone who spoke on the Teenage Potentialities — Our Challenge. Father Richard Torney, Chaplain of Mercy High School and Father Joseph Hogan, Chaplain of Notre Dame High School, Elmira were discussion leaders in a panel for high school teachers on Spiritual Problems of the High School Classroom.

A CLASS demonstration for the primary department was given by Sister Mary Brigit with a group of first graders from St. John the Evangelist School. Mother Mary Francesca, principal of Our Lady of Mercy High School, presided at a joint session of 7th and 8th grade teachers who discussed the Curriculum Coordination between elementary and secondary schools.

Various departmental meetings for both the high school and grade school teachers were scheduled to discuss problems pertinent to their teaching areas. Educational exhibits, slide films and movies useful as teaching aids were on display.

Father Torney acted as chairman of the morning general session and Father Hogan of the afternoon.

The day's program closed with Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament given by Father William Roche, Associate Superintendent of Schools.
