Chair Of Unity Octave

A Matter Of Personal Concern

By FR. TITUS CRANNY, S.A. of Graymoor, Garrison, N. Y.

During the month of January the subway stations of New York City will feature a striking religious poster. Against a jet black background it depicts hands folded in prayer. Beneath them in large bold red letters is the one word: Pray. Beneath this is the prayer of the Saviour for Unity spoken at the Last Supper: "that all may be one."

This dramatic poster is not merely an example of modern advertising with emphasis on the simple and the striking. It carries a message of supreme spiritual importance the need of prayer for the salvation of souls.

For prayer is the power that brings down God's grace and without grace no soul is saved. And without prayer there is no grace. Other works such as preaching, study, writing, missionary labors—all are necessary and each has its place in God's plan. But in the scale of values nothing can substitute for prayer. The various works of the apostolate must be vitalized and spiritualized by the dynamic force of prayer.

ON ONE OCCASION Jesus told His apostles that they could not cast out certain devils from the souls of men except "by prayer and fasting." This principle surely applies to the devil of unbelief, apostasy, irreligion, indifferentism, which binds the souls of men at the present day and keeps them away from the love, grace, and unity of Christ. Such evil forces cannot be cast out only by sincere and persevering prayer. Such is the purpose and means of the Unity Octave.

Bishop Francis X. Ford, the heroic Maryknoll Missioner who suffered and died for the faith in China, expressed the spirit of prayer for souls in one of his memorable writings. "If Catholics were to redouble their prayers for the conversion of those outside the fold," he declared, "the united appeal storming heaven would without doubt mark the year as a Pentecostal renewal.

Our participation in this Octave will . . . enlarge our viewpoint, broaden our charity, and make us see in every man a brother whom Christ is yearning to welcome to His sacraments."

He said further that the faithful should follow the spirit of Our Lady in seeking to bring men to Christ. "She wants us to share her anxiety for the conversion of the world. She wants us to carry about in our daily work this deep anxiety for the conversion of souls and a corresponding anxiety in offering reparation for the sins of the world . . . Our hearts must be like the Heart of Mary—anxious, yearning for the conversion of all people."

The mission of the Chair of Unity Octave is to encourage and to increase prayers for religious unity. The Octave is not an isolated devotion beginning on the feast of the Chair of St. Peter at Rome on January 18 and concluding a week later on the feast of the Conversion of St. Paul.

The Octave is meant to arouse men to prayer, to stir them from complacency, to move them to apostolic action—for the conversion of souls. Nor is it enough to pray only during the Octave. Such prayer for unity should be the daily plea of all the faithful.

For as Father Paul, the Octave's founder, wrote: "We can be friendly and act charitable toward each other, but as to there being One Fold and One Shepherd, this can never be until our non-Catholic brethren see eye to eye with us in regard to the Chair of Peter and the infallible and teaching authority of the Vicar of Christ. For this end pray without ceasing, not merely during the Octave, but daily throughout the year."

Prayer does not change God, but as St. Gregory the Great remarks, it changes man. And it changes those who pray as well as those who are prayed for. Salvation is the purpose of the Church, but not in a vague meaningless way.

It is also the concern of the individual Catholic sharing the Saviour's thirst for the souls of men. His principal and indispensable way is prayer. And in the words of Cardinal Merry del Val every Catholic should seek "to open the road to the light which comes from above and remove the obstacles."

It is a glorious task to work for God and with Him for the salvation of souls." For" there is no greater task for the follower of Christ—it is the privilege of everyone.

Aquinas To Revise '57 Gridiron Schedule

Now that football has been guaranteed at Aquinas Institute in 1957 the Rev. Cyril Carter, C. S. B., director of athletics at the Basilian school has announced plans for the coming season.

Teams from distant parts of the country will be dropped from the schedule and teams within a 150 mile radius will be scheduled for next season. Teams from Erie, Buffalo and Auburn have already expressed interest according to Father Carter.

"The schedule for next year should be an interesting one," Father Carter stated. "It should provide exciting games because these teams will be of the same calibre that Aquinas is producing now. Joe Repko is an outstanding coach. His system is a new one. It will take a year or two before the fruits will blossom from his hard work."

Faced with the problem of dropping football or raising $15,000 in two weeks, the Aquinas students met the challenge and soared over the top in their drive to keep football at Aquinas.

Pope Sends Relief Aid For Refugees

Vatican City — (RNS) — Two carloads of clothing and medical supplies designated by Pope Pius XII for the relief of Hungarian refugees left the Vatican railroad station bound for Vienna.

Also shipped to the Austrian capital were an ambulance equipped with everything needed for surgical operations, and a mobile chapel donated by Austrian Roman Catholics.

The supplies were consigned to Archbishop Giovanni Delleplane, Papal Nuncio to Austria.

Lacks Integrity

The narrow-minded individual doesn't have enough backbone to back down from a wrong position.

Dansville KC Unit Enjoy Yule Party

Dansville — The Ladies Auxiliary of the Knights of Columbus held their annual Christmas Party Monday evening, Dec. 10 at the K. of C. Hall. Ninety-five people attended for a ham supper with the Auxiliary's officers in charge.

Entertainment was provided by Miss Margaret Hondelink and the Sextet of Girls, who gave a variety of songs. An original one act play, "Man Looked for Hope", was dramatized by the Catholic Theatre of Rochester.

A talk on the season of Advent and the true spirit of Christmas was given by the Rev. John C. O'Donnell. Remarks of the season were given by the Rev. Orrin W. Feller.

Following the program, the matter of the Red Cross Hungarian Relief Appeal was brought before the members and it was voted to contribute $10.00.

CLOSED NEW YEAR'S DAY

Bank Building

Dallas, Tex. —(RNS)— Two huge "Christmas Crosses" formed by office lighting will burn nightly in the downtown Republic National Bank Building from Dec. 24 through Jan. 1.

Open House Scheduled in Fairport's New School For Religion Classes

An "Open House" schedule at the new School of Religion and Convent of the Sisters, Mission Helpers of the Sacred Heart at 10 Baumer Place, Fairport is announced today by the Rev. Leonard A. Kelly, pastor of Church of the Assumption.

The schedule follows:

For Priests and Sisters, Friday and Saturday, Dec. 28 and 29, 2 to 5 p. m.

For Sodalists and High School Students, Sunday, Dec. 30, 2 to 4 p. m.

For the Parishioners and former Parishioners of Assumption Parish, on New Year's Day, 2 to 5 p. m.

The unique school in which released time religious instruction is being given to 500 pupils is located near the new Central Public School on Baumer Place running west from South Main St. in Fairport. The children come across the street in a few minutes from public school classes to attend the "Released Time" classes of religion.

Four Sister of the Mission Helpers of the Sacred Heart make up the faculty. The Sisters Motherhouse is in Baltimore, Md., and they have another foundation in the Diocese of Rochester in Immaculate Conception Parish, Ithaca.

The Cathechetical Center and convent wore built following a successful campaign in Assumption Parish which resulted in $132,000 being pledged in November, 1955. Ground for the structure was broken on March 4, 1956. The school, only one of its kind in the diocese, put into use this month, is now ready for the Open House.

Sister Paulette Addresses Social Work Convention

Sister M. Pauletta of the Nazareth College faculty was one of the speakers at the 18th annual convention of the American Catholic Sociological Society held in Milwaukee, Wis. last week, emphasizing the importance of preparing undergraduates for social work.

She said that "until very recently teaching social work in an undergraduate liberal arts college was frowned upon as an intrusion by the ever-growing number of the graduate schools whose sole concern centered on teaching the attitudes, techniques and skills necessary to the successful pursuit of this new and expanding profession."

"But today," Sister Paulette declared, "a more permissive, more encouraging and more accepting attitude has replaced this hostility," due to the growing realization that nowhere else are potential social workers to be recruited.

She said Catholic colleges which orient students toward the field of social work are, "doing a really apostolic service because Catholic participation in this work is imperative, since no other type of activity touches the lives of people more intimately for good or evil."
