Russian Tourists See Holy Father

Vatican City—(NC)—For the first time and maybe the last time of their lives, a group of Russian tourists saw His Holiness Pope Pius XII impart his blessing to a crowd here.

The Russians, 400 strong, had just come out at noon from a visit of the Vatican museums and of the Basilica of St. Peter when the Pope appeared at the window of his private apartment to bless several thousand assembled in Saint Peter's square.

The Russian tourists witnessed the papal blessing and took photographs of the crowd and of the Pope.

Joyce Kilmer Kin Wins Poetry Prize

Washington—(NC)—A grand daughter of poet Joyce Kilmer has been awarded the Thomas O'Hagan Poetry Prize of $25 given annually by the Catholic University of America.

She is Anne Mary Kilmer of Vienna, Va., a freshman at the university. Her prize-winning poem, entitled "Young Artist," and "Fence-Caught Horse" were published in Nexus, university magazine.

Joyce Kilmer, a convert to the Catholic faith, was killed in France during World War I while serving with New York's famous "Fighting 69th" regiment.

Landlords Who Bar Children Called Pagan

Denver—(NS)—Landlords who refuse to rent to couples with children were accused here of indulging in "pagan practices" by Mrs. Robert H. Mahoney of Hartford, Conn., president of the National Council of Catholic Women.

"This is a sadistic lack of consideration for parents who are searching for a roof over their children's heads," she said in an address to the Denver Archdiocesan Council of Catholic Women.

"We have the value of the individual among our basic principles. For here we are proposing to deny the value of the individual."

A member of the Hartford Council, housing commission Mrs. Mahoney said situations in which apartment mothers are turned away from apartments are "a bitter reminder of Bethlehem."

"Thus the pagan attitude toward children begins even before they are born," she said. Mrs. Mahoney warned tenants about rules makes them equally responsible.
