Cancer Research Lab Approved At St. Bonaventure U.

St. Bonaventure, N. Y. — St. Bonaventure University's Department of Biology has received a U. S. Public Service grant to build and equip a radio-active isotope laboratory for cancer research.

The new laboratory, cost of which will total $6,700, will make possible a further expansion of current metabolic studies being made at the University, Dr. eKenneth E. Anderson, department chairman, said.

Dr. Anderson pointed out present studies are being made using tissues or bacterial cells and determining what transformations they bring about when they are suspended in various chemical substances.

By using radio-active chemicals, he added, it will be possible to determine whether a particular part of a living cell is formed from a particular substance, how a chemical substance is changed into a different compound by a cell, and whether it is excreted by a cell.

Assisting Dr. Anderson in the new project will be Professor Francis X. Liegey of the University's faculty who has completed a course of study at the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies.

Perry Como TV Show Tops With Sisters, Seminarians

By TOM ROWAN
(The Catholic Standard)

"Why shouldn't I be relaxed? We don't do anything very complicated on the show. And don't forget, there are a great many people working very hard offstage. They keep things running smoothly."

Thus spok Perry Como, the immensely popular TV performer, in a recent interview. Como's relaxed air is a source of amazement to other personalities in the high-pressure entertainment field. It's also the butt of quite a few jokes, even on his own Saturday night show.

But this attitude is no act. Both in rehearsal and offstage, Como is as amiable and easy-going as he is in front of the cameras.

Regarding Catholic reaction to his show, he remarked good-naturedly: "We get a lot of mail from convents and seminaries, and many of the letters mention that ours is one of the few programs they're allowed to watch. Come to think of it, I don't know if that's good or bad."

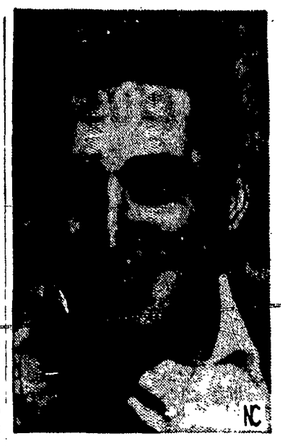
In a more serious vain, he added: "We do try to put on a show that will appeal to the whole family, and that means avoiding material that would be in any way offensive. I hope we're doing all right on that score."

A large portion of Como's mail comes from youngsters and elderly people, he revealed. With a twinkle in his eye, he commented: "We seem to appeal mainly to people from two to nine years old and from 90 to 100.

"Actually, we did get a fan letter from a woman 100 years old. Her son wrote it for her. We sent her a wire telling her we were dedicating a song to her. Naturally, we couldn't announce this on the air, because we would have gotten more requests than we could possibly handle."

EACH 60-MINUTE program requires about 25 to 30 hours rehearsal, Como said. "There's no reason for me to get flustered or jittery," he added. "Each step is planned far in advance, and the show moves right along.

"By far the hardest worker is our director, Gray Lockwood. He's in charge of the whole operation, and I don't see how he gets everything done."



PERRY COMO

Friday is Como's busiest day. He and the rest of the company spend about 12 hours putting the show together and smoothing out the rough spots. The rehearsals are smooth and efficient operations. Everyone knows his job, and does it with an impressive lack of confusion.

COMO'S FUTURE plans center about his TV show. He said he had a few recording commitments, then he and his family were going to Sea Island, Georgia, for a vacation. The show resumes in September.

He had only one personal appearance planned — and that strictly in the role of a proud parent. His eldest son, Ronnie, graduated last month from Xavier High School, a Jesuit institution in Manhattan. He'll enter Notre Dame University in the Fall.

The Comos' other son, David, 11, and their daughter, Terry, 10, are students at St. Peter's School in Port Washington, Long Island, where the Comos make their home.
