Red Censors Keep Poles

Makarczyk spoke about the matters of religious life in Poland."

In this phrase, Radio Warsaw summarized a protest, made by a Catholic member from the floor of the Sejm (Parliament), against government censorship of the Catholic press.

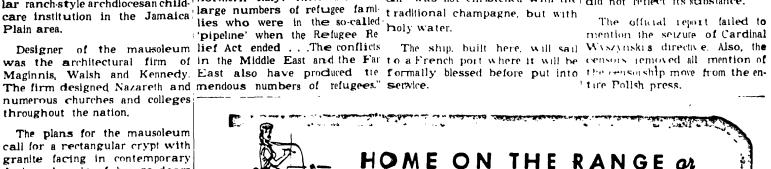

FEW POLES YET know about the remarks made by Prof. Zbigniew Makarczyk, in which he charged the communist government of Wladyslaw Gomulka with failing to keep its side of the December, 1956, agreement with the Catholic Church.

Prof. Mawarczyk protested the recent censoring of Tygodnik Powszechny (Universal Weekly), a Catholic paper printed in Cracow, for attempting to print a directive from Cardinal Wyszynski, Primate of Poland, warning Polish priests not to cooperate with Pax, a group of pro-Red Catholies.

The Polish press is allowed only a limited coverage of parliament The only reports of parliamentary discussions which are rallowed are those taken from the official text distributed by the official Polish Press Agency (PAP).

ON THE DAY after Prof Makarczyk's statement of protest agency summarized what he had
