longer. They are in the upper grades and the early years of high school.

Right now we are feeling the above-mentioned pinch. Remember how, not so many years ago, the last Sunday in August was always a plea to "send your children to a Catholic school?"

As Catholics, we have a vast stake in the educational problems of the present and the near future.

IN OUR PARISH young mothers took up their posts outside the principal's office as early as 7 a.m.

Diocesan superintendents and school principals everywhere are doing a loaves-and-fishes act in spreading school facilities over a maximum of pupil need.

And still Sister manages to teach—and to discipline—an appalling number of youngsters.

A phrase comes back from our typing lessons: "Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of the party."

Surely this is the time for all good parents to come to the aid of their own children, caught up in the maelstrom of overcrowded schools.

If you're as lucky as we, and have your children in Catholic schools, give Sister a hand by seeing that the homework is done—i.e., understood.

OUR HIGH SCHOOLS and colleges, cognizant for some time of the upcoming wave, are doing their best to take care of their own, but it's a struggle.

training, and has taught, might well give a hand here.

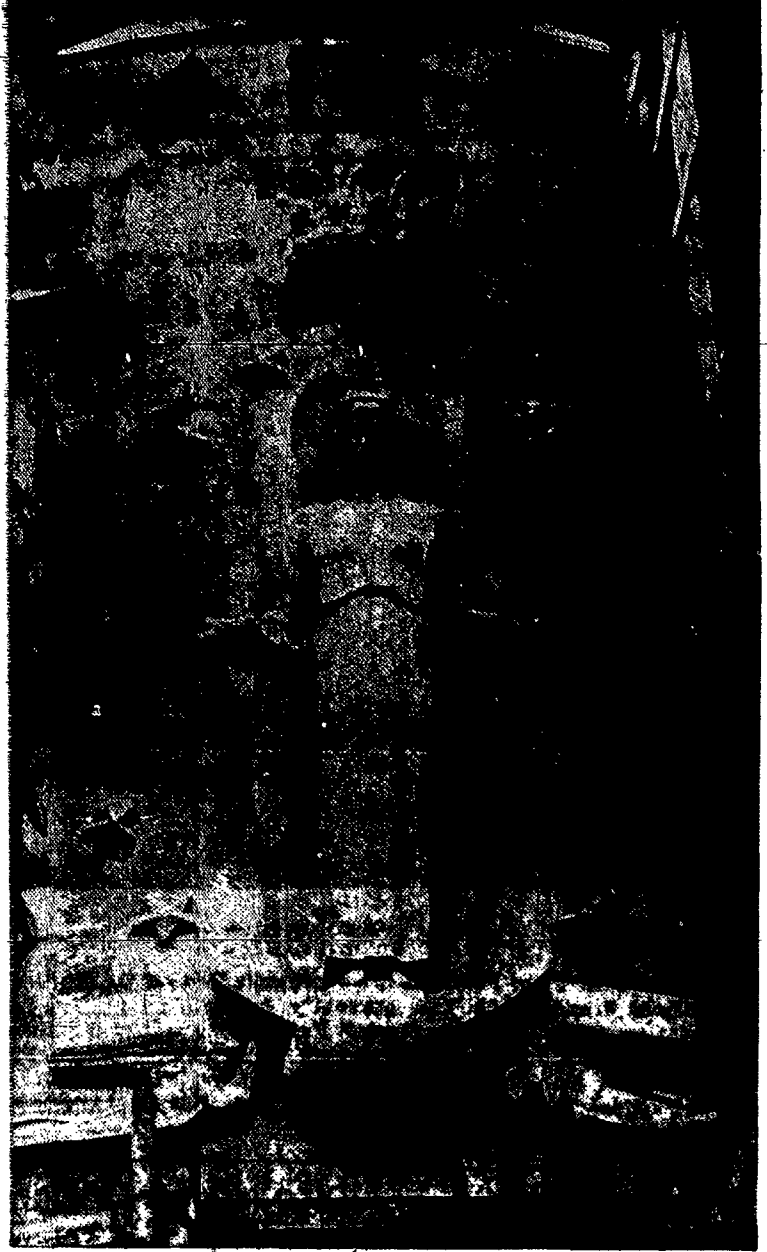

Catholic colleges and universities the length and breadth of the land were, this past summer, filled with Religious—priests, Brothers and Sisters readying themselves to care for the higher education of our children.

It wasn't easy for them. Wearing the heavy habits of their various orders, and in the blistering heat of a Washington summer, these dedicated men and women studied under experts in all fields of education.

As this session of school starts, we Catholic parents must do our part. First of all, we must realize the tremendous pressure brought to bear on our teachers by the sheer weight of numbers.

WE EVEN HAVE to see it that "the big one"—college student, that is—has as his main purpose STUDIES! So often the inclination is for participation in too many extracurriculars—the popularly brings and the outside jobs with their ready money.

This September, particularly, is a New Year for parents who have children in school.

Mother-Daughter Welcome To Mark Academy Opening

The annual Mother-Daughter Welcome marks the opening of a new school year at the Academy of the Sacred Heart on Prince Street, on Friday, Sept 13 at 9:00 a.m.

The faculty, with the help of present pupils and their mothers, welcome new pupils and mothers at a breakfast in the garden, following Holy Mass in the convent chapel.

Also usually present are a large representation of last June's graduates who drop in for a visit before dispersing to various colleges.

AMONG WOMEN Parents And The Teacher

The current issue of one of our Catholic monthly magazines has an informative and amusing article dealing with getting the children off to school in September.

STATING POSITIVELY if we know we have a nervous, or a potentially nervous child, we should be as calm and powerful as we can ourselves.

Let's use our common sense and recall our own childhood. Patience and kindness are not always easy to cultivate, but the reward they bring with them make them worth the effort we expend in acquiring them.

When a mother tells other people in a child's presence that he is nervous or queer or odd, if she constantly worries over his health and habits, if she coddles him physically or mentally, she is causing her child to be nervous.

Nervousness is also developed, we are told, when we deny him the independence of thought and action which is his right by age and circumstance.

CHILD PSYCHOLOGISTS tell us that some children are nervous from early infancy. Being fussy, irritable babies and delicate, sensitive, easily upset children, they become easily flustered and excitable adults.

Hot Music Scorches Musicians

Nairobi, East Africa—Really "hot" music was served here at an important state occasion recently.

The Kenya Police Band had completed its rehearsal for the programme and were waiting in the kitchen of the government house to be called.

Unfortunately, our African unflinching memory for music carried them through the concert without missing a note or a beat.
