St. Thomas School Marks 'Fire Prevention Week'

St. Thomas School children in Irondequoit in elementary grades through the sixth, marked National Fire Prevention Week Oct. 6-12, when they launched the fall phase of the year-round Junior Fire Marshal campaign.

This extensive fire prevention and safety education program enrolled more than 3,000,000 boys and girls in 48 states, Canada, Hawaii and the Philippines. The children completing the home reports during the campaign receive official Junior Fire Marshal sashes, new this year, and red, plastic firemen's helmets.

Teachers at St. Thomas School and throughout the county will be supplied with study units for fire prevention instruction," Donnelly said, "and honor rolls to keep a record of children who complete their home reports. The school reporting a satisfactory record of home report completion will receive a blue and gold Achievement Award banner."

Cadets Join Plan Of Fire Prevention

Nazareth Hall Cadet School pupils in elementary grades, two to five, were enrolled in the Junior Fire Marshal Program created by Hartford Fire Insurance Co. and sponsored locally by Egbert F. Ashley Co., general agents.

The program carried out and awards made were the same as at St. Thomas School, Irondequoit, reported in adjoining columns.

program is sponsored nationally as a public service by Hartford Fire Insurance Co. Campaign highlights were announced by Frank E. Donnelly, II, secretary treasurer of Egbert F. Ashley Co., sponsors of the St. Thomas School program.

KEYNOTE of the year's program was the traditional Junior Fire Marshal Home Inspection Report which the boys and girls received Tuesday at school. This report will appear in the new fall issue of the 12 page Junior Fire Marshal magazine provided by Egbert F. Ashley Co.
