CYO Lists Youth Bowling

A bowling clinic will be held Saturday, Oct. 26 at 9:30 a.m. at the Knights of Columbus bowling alleys, 50 Chestnut St. The C.Y.O. plans to organize leagues for both boys and girls now in the elementary schools.

All boys and girls in the 8th grade or under are invited to attend this clinic and become members of the leagues.

For more information on this junior bowling program call the C.Y.O. at the Columbus Civic Center.

Simple instructions on bowling, scoring and manners on the alleys along with plans for the leagues will be presented by Harry J. Spague, director of high school bowling.

The league will operate under the American Junior Bowling St. Bonaventure University at a program. Each bowler will roll 2 games every Saturday starting Nov. 2.

Honorary Degree
St. Bonaventure, N.Y.—Philip C. Lauerger of Tulsa, Oklahoma, longtime publisher of The Oil and Gas Journal, will receive an honorary doctorate degree from the St. Bonaventure University at a banquet highlighting a two-day science symposium on Oct. 23 and 24.

Aquinas Takes First Win, McQuaid Tops Albion

Aquinas Institute gridgers walloped Mt. Carmel High School of Auburn 33-12 for their first victory of the season Sunday in Aquinas Stadium and the Knights of McQuaid Jesuit High School took their third victory of the season from Albion Central 21-0 in a contest Saturday.

Coach Joe Repko made changes in the Aquinas backfield in a surprise pregame move that sent quarterback Greg Riley into the fullback slot. The change resulted in 352 yards gained by Aquinas on the ground, 121 of them by Riley.

McQuaid scored early in the first quarter after Albion's quarterback got off a bad punt. The fine defensive play held Albion scoreless.

The Knights will play Bath at the McQuaid field on Elmwood Ave. Saturday. A win will clinch a winning season for the Knights since they now have a 3-2 record with two games remaining.

Aquinas meets North Catholic High School of Pittsburgh Sunday at Aquinas Stadium, Rutgers Ave. at 2:30 p.m.
