ACE IS THE KEYNOTE of Christmas. When Christ was born at Bethlehem the world was at peace. It was not a true peace but only a kind of armed truce among the nations.

The calm that reigned over the earth on the night of Christ's barth was a manmade peace, a sereraity that appeared only on the surface. It was a peace imposed by the might of Roman legions.

Into this world of shaky Roman peace Christ brought true joy, the peace of God. The advent of the Son of God at Bethlehem was proclaimed from the skies by angels who

Reds Make Flight From East Zone Serious Crime

Berlin — (NC) — The Red regime of East Germany has made it a "crime" for its subjects to seek freedom in West Germany.

At the demand of "Red Hilde" Benjamin, East Germany's notorious Minister of Justice, the parliament passed a bill imposing up to three years of imprisonment at hard labor and heavy fines on persons "illegally" attempting to leave East Germany All friends or others who give them any assistance in making their flight are subject to the same penalties.

THIS BILL WAS PASSED as East German comments to are increasing their attack upon religion. Both Catholic and Protestant church authorities have been alarmed by recent attacks on religion and by the revival of the persecution of clergymen and lay religious leaders.

At the present time the Evangelical Lutheran church, which is in the majority in East Germany, is bearing the brunt of the attacks. But Catholle Church authorities expect the persecution to include all White Plains, N. Y. - (RNS) - Hearings on a suit to restrain the erection of a Nativity creche on the lawn of the Junior-Senior High School in Ossining, N. Y., were adjourned until Dec. 20 in State Supreme Court here.

Justice Frank H. Coyne ruled the adjour mment at a closed-door conference. He also ordered that erection of the creche be held up until the case is argued before him on the 20th.

BOTH THE adjournment and the closed session had been requested by Arthur P. Gaymor, an attorney for the Ossining Board of Education, defendant in the suit brought by 22 Protestant and Jewish residents. Mr. Gaynor wanted the case held over until after Christmas but Justice Coyne denied petition.

Mr. Gaynor said he wished additional time to prepare an answer to the suit. He also said that since the Nativity scene was a symbol of peace he felt a conference in characters might prevent the matter "from becoming a source of bitterness.'

Meanwhile, both sides agreed to allow 15 members of an Ossining creche committee to become a party to the suit in support of the board's action approving the Nativity scene. The board endorsed the project at the request of the commit-

THE COMMITTEE, which includes Mayor Jesse A. Collyer, Jr., and Police Justice George Beisheim, Jr., said it wanted the creche as part of the movement to "put Christ back into Christmas." It said the Nativity scene would be erected after the school holiday recess began.

A creche was erected at the same site on the school lawn last year.

Leo Pfeiffer of New York, counsel for the American Jewish Congress, was attorney for the plaintiffs. He said the Nativity scene on public school property was "a use of a tax-established and tax-supported public school system to aid religious groups to propagate their faith."

THE NEW YORK Civil Liberties Union sent a memo to the court supporting the plaintiffs.

"Permitting the creche, the school board of Ossining makes it appear that the governmental authorities of Ossining endorse. subscribe to and wish to help disseminate the religious beliefs embodied in a symbol," the CLU said.

"This symbol is an eloquent, though mute method of teaching religious doctrine. Those members of the community who do not hold to this doctrine are made to feel that they are, in the eyes of the state, a disfavored minority. Their belief or non-belief is tolerated. Another belief is supported by the state."
