Bishop Cautions Pedestrians

My Dear People:

The avoidance of accidents by pedestrians is the subject of a campaign at the present time, which I have been asked to bring to your attention.

Whatever validity there may be in the past to the idea that the "pedestrian has the right of way" has been nullified by the current attitude of motorists. It behowes the pedestrian today to be very careful and to take every precaution for his own protection in a day when marry drivers deny the pedestrian any right on the highway.

With a blessing, I am

Personally, I would say that the safest attitude for the pedestrian is to presume that he will get few courtesies and hence must exert that eternal vigilance which is the price of life as well as liberty.

Your devoted Shepherd in Christ,
