March Of Dimes

By Mary Lennon Snyder
Last Saturday I attended a luncheon commemorating the 20th anniversary of the March of Dimes. For several years now, it has been my genuine pleasure to work on the March of Dimes committee and to distribute envelopes to the parochial schools of our community.

Because the parochial schools have actively and generously participated in the March, today I should like to write briefly about it.

Although the widespread use of the Salk Polio Vaccine seems to have reduced the incidence of this dread crippling disease, the March of Dimes campaign continues because there is need of funds to be again generously donated by the American people.

THE DISCOVERY of the anti-polio vaccine has caused a most encouraging change in the purposes for which the funds will be used. Heretofore March of Dimes money was used principally to assist the victims of the disease. It helped in the purchase of rehabilitative equipment, post polio operations and therapy.

Because we have the victims of polio with us, these expenditures will continue. Sometimes post polio operations may be performed ten years after the onset of the disease.

But the forward looking aspect of the work is in the need for education and further research. There must be a continuing program of education to encourage

DOINGS AT THE DALY'S

By Mary Tinley Daly

"The Twelfth Day of Christmas" has come and gone and within those 12 days has occurred perhaps the greatest change-of-pace most families experience during the entire year.

At home, the Christmas tree, dismantled, ornaments wrapped and packed away, crib figurines stored carefully for Christmas 1958, holly off the lampshades, also the dried mistletoe between the living and dining rooms — leaving nothing but the memories of the kisses it inspired.

Presents have been put to use and, as usual, boxes saved, though we vowed this one year we WOULD NOT SAVE BOXES! "Fire hazards" the Head of the House calls them and we agree, in theory. Nevertheless, they are such pretty boxes — and you never know when you might want one just that size. . . Usually by the time we find it, the lid has been lost or a corner bashed in.

with freshly cleaned uniforms, children subconsciously want the nine-to-three routine, though they would never admit it. "Sister" had a hard time with her charges during these days. It means review of the first semester's work, a lot of it driven out of the heads of the children by the holidays.

There are sniffles, symptoms of the dreaded flu, and Sister has to use Sokomon-like judgment to decide who is gold-bricking. Comes the imminent prospect of the formidable mid-year exams.

The world at large: newspapers report startling events re-

The thank-you notes have been written and we have resolved, as have our correspondents, that well "keep in touch" more often during the year 1958.

THE VOLUME of mail, and its character, have changed completely. Nowadays, all the letters come in window envelopes or in those large ones that go through the charge-customer metering system in the department stores.

We are reminded here of a self-imposed penance suggested by one of the priests in our parish, Father E. Carl Lyon. "Everybody likes to receive mail," Father Lyon told the children in Ginny's class. "As a little penance, how about letting your mail wait an hour before you open it?"

This, to us was a new thought and we tried it — a real penance before Christmas. We rather imagine, though, that the penance on those January bills is opening them at once. Theologically O.K., Father Lyon?

There are changes in hours and activities at home too: no more staying up until all hours. The long dull days of January bring us back to reality with a thud.

Fancy clothes, the glamorous models, gradually find themselves pushed to the back of the closets as the workaday skirts and blouses, the plain wool dresses, the year-before-last suits take precedence on the closet pole.

Even in the kitchen simple, nourishing beef and lamb stews, meat loaves and hot dogs have supplanted the turkey and ham. Family members come in hungry for a six o'clock dinner, no matter what is on the menu, rather than with the erstwhile jaded. "Oh, I've been to a party — ate a lot of stuff going to another one . . ."

An the gelatin desserts, the gingerbread with whipped cream, even the humble apple betty have eager fans, following a plethora of fruit cake, plum pudding, mince pie and rice cookies.
