Drive For New College Extended Due To Weather

Delayed by adverse weather during the last ten days, workers in the fund appeal for a proposed Sisters of Mercy teacher-training college building this week were given an extension to Feb. 10 to complete their calls

Harold J. Coleman and Mrs. Walter B. Hickey general committee cochairmen announced the extension when it became evident that many of the 600 men and women solicitors still had several calls to make

SPECIAL GIFTS solicitation also still is being conducted by a committee headed by Henry J. Kearse, who said the group will wind up its canvass by the Feb 10 deadline Kearse noted that contributions from business and industry have been very gratifying."

Pledges are being sought to ward election of a three-story building for Catherine McAuley Junior College, which prepares young Sisters for teaching in diocesan schools Estimated at $1,250,000, the building will be started in spring as a West wing addition to the Sisters of Mercy motherhouse, 1437 Blossom Rd

State education authorities have declared that the college now conducted in the motherhouse basement with an enrollment of nearly 100 sisters must have better facilities by 1959 to obtain a permanent charter Mother Mary Magdalene mother general of the community, said the new building also is required to ease overcrowded conditions for ... postulants and aging Sisters ... the motherhouse

... being added to the proposed building is a reading and testing guidance laboratory conducted for the last six years by the Sisters at Our Lady of Mercy High School.
