DOINGS AT THE DALY'S

By Mary Tinley Daly

It had been "one of those pair of stockings..." Oh, we know that. "Next time I lend anybody a pair of stockings..."

"Ca-choo!" from Pat. "Air automatic but none too fervent, 'God bless you' from the assembled company."

"HERE WE are again," said the Head of the House, standing as usual at the head of the table. "And now, in the Name of the Father, and of the Son..."

"Cover your mouth," somebody whispered. "All waited with bowed heads and gum thoughts, for the accustomed grace-before-meals."

"Tonight, we're going to join St. Francis in his prayer," said the Head of the House solemnly. Eyes lifted at the invocation, but heads remained bowed as he recited:

"Lord, make me an instrument of Thy peace: Where there is hatred, let me sow love. Where there is despair, hope. Where there is darkness, light. O Lord, where there is sadness, joy."

"O Divine Master, grant that I may not so much seek to be consoled, as to console; to be understood, as to understand; to be loved, as to love; for it is in giving that we are perfected, and it is in dying that we are born to eternal life."

After the ordinary grace, everybody starts eating and talking. After this one, there was an unaccustomed silence.

What the other family members were thinking I don't know. But what I was thinking was that first phrase: "Lord, make me an instrument of Thy peace..."

Let minor mishaps disrupt the peace? "Come as it comes. The Dalys were in a hurry to get out of the dining room."

One of another... possibly all of those banal phrases suddenly had become part of the consciousness of a group of people.

Eye-glasses could be fixed. Stockings could be repaired. Cuddly cured washing machines of course.

The grace after meals was recited and the Head of the House went to the dining room to read the evening paper.

In the act of washing the dishes, a general commotion prevailed among the guests and myself.

"Could I help it if the boys on the playground pushed me and broke my specs?" Ginny muttered under her breath.

The 13th century, Saint Francis had once more changed his wonder in a humble house hold in the year 1458.

Religious Orders Of Women In Our Diocese

Sister M. Theophana

SISTERS OF ST. BASIL THE GREAT

Sisters of St. Basil the Great, who staff St. Peter and Paul School, Auburn, are unique in their claim as the oldest monastic Order of the church. The history of the Sisters dates back to the fourth century when St. Basil the Great together with his sister, St. Macrina, founded the Order.

The American foundation stems from one of its ancient houses in the South Central Ukraine, when Mother Helen Lancashire came to Philadelphia on Nov. 25, 1811 to undertake a work exclusively devoted to those of the Byzantine-Slavonic Rite. The Auburn Sisters belong to the Philadelphia Province. The Order is engaged in the education of youth, care of orphans, sewing of liturgical vestments for the Eastern Church, and the publication of the "Messenger of the Sacred Heart" in the Ukrainian language.

In conjunction with the Apostleship of Prayer, the Sisters wear a black habit and black veil with a white sash and a silver crucifix. (One of a series.)
