Notre Dame High Notes
By TONETTE TOTA and PATRICK SANE

The 58 school activities of Notre Dame High School, Elmira, were lined up last week by the Student Council. Such spectaculars as a "Sweetheart Swing" and a St. Patrick's Day Assembly are in the offing.

The "Sweetheart Swing" sponsored by the freshmen and sophomore classes will be held Tuesday Feb. 11, from 8:30 to 11:30 with music by the Melodians. Sally Bowers heads the refreshment committee while Geraldine Christofari is in charge of tickets. The gym will be decorated by Patricia Rogers, chairman. Rose Milliken, co-chairman with a group of volunteers, Joseph Kelly and Richard Crowley will manage the checking.

The Postscripts, a newly formed writers' group, has come into being through the efforts and interest of hardworking freshmen. Moderated by Sister Marie Raymond, the club was open to all those who obtained above 90% in English in the January exams.

The purpose of the Postscripts is to encourage creative writing and to take active part in the many available contests of that nature. At their first meeting the following officers were elected: chairman Robert Griffin, who already has had an essay published in Young America Speaks, the National High School Essay Anthology; and is school winner in the Optimist contest; secretary Kathleen Morak; secretary of attendance, Patrick Agan. "The pen is mightier than the sword" is their password.

The results of the mid-year exams showed several performance marks among the students. Jerome Coffey brought home a 100 in Test reports. Eve Mott and Louise Mayhew did likewise in intermediate algebra test. Similar percentages were earned by Sharon Thompson in general math and Jon Reiser, Edward Delaney and Kathleen Hollamer in algebra. Dan Dan in French I and Julie Loughlin in biology received perfect marks.

In religion, nine seniors of ten juniors, one Soph and one Fresh earned 100.
