New Aquinas Math Club Meets With Success

Aquinas Institute mathematics club, formed this year to explore the world of theoretical mathematics, has met with a great deal of success according to Rev. Edward Doser, club moderator.

The club was designed to build a foundation in analytical geometry, post high school algebra and calculus. Currently the club members are dividing their time between problems dealing with the amount of solid fuel needed to launch a rocket that would put a satellite in orbit and recreational mathematics.

Father Doser at a recent club meeting, enumerated some of the typical elementary questions connected with numbers which for nearly three centuries have formed a large part of most competitions of mathematical amusements.

Aquinas Librarian Pens Scholar Guide

A "Planning Guide for Scholars" was written for the students of Aquinas Institute by Rev. John R. Whitley, club librarian and member of the scholarship committee.

The 26-page guide for future Catholic leaders offers suggestions to the high school student to evaluate his achievements and abilities, to assist him in establishing goals in life and to offer aids to realize these goals.
